BUFFALO GROVE HIGH SCHOOL STAMPEDE VOL. IX

Buffalo Grove High School
1100 W. Dundee Road
Buffalo Grove, IL. 60090

As we enter Buffalo Grove High School as freshmen, our minds are often filled with questions such as, "Where is the bathroom? Did he come from Rand? Why do I have to have her in my class?" We develop our little groups and form a sense of belonging in the crowds and activities we feel comfortable with.

Sophomore year rolls around quicker than expected, and again we fall into our little cliques and patterns. Those patterns dictate which resource rooms we sit in to work and which we sit in to talk with our friends. In short, we develop a sense of familiarity and comfort with our surroundings.

We pass into our Junior year ready to enjoy the freedom that being an upper-classman offers. We already have Oral Comm, Geometry, and Phi-Sci-Physics under our belts, and that freedom will be greatly appreciated. It includes typing an eight page term paper for Expo, learning how to count to 20 in German, analyzing why mice behave the way they do, and why the Federalist papers and Aaron Burr are important to American History. The summer arrives and we have the freedom to pay auto insurance, take out a date or even buy new clothes.

Finally, after three years of hassling and being hassled, we "arrive". We are the class to be. This is the final year we have to put up with. The months from September to January pass in a blur, and the final set of exams comes along right after vacation. Spring break, with a trip to Hawaii with "Uncle Paul" Mueller, or just to Wrigley Field on Opening Day, drives home the point that the year is all but over.

Senior Ditch Day comes, and Prom, with its tuxedos that are two sizes too big, is just one week away. As we stand in the gym on that hot June night, with all these people in the bleachers, we realize that while high school was not always fun and games, we wouldn't trade the memories we've acquired over the past four years for anything (not even an A in Expo II).

This edition of the Stampede is a reflection of only some of the events that occurred at Buffalo Grove High School from September 1981 through June 1982, but it is an accurate reflection of those covered. They should recall fond memories not only to Buffalo Grove students in September 1982, but to BG alumni who page through this copy of the Stampede twenty years from now.

Homecoming full of games and activities

Games and activities are the main part of the Homecoming week. Homecoming week started off with Punk Rock Day, when students could dress up like Punk rockers. Next were Hat and Sweats Day, Color Day, and Spirit Day.

Along with the dress up days, there were also activities in the cafeteria during lunch hours, such as a contest to see who could wrap up his friends the fastest with toilet paper. Bob the Magic Monk also helped brighten up the week with his many tricks.

Some juniors also thought it would be nice to have a little fun of their own, a live goldfish eating contest. The winners were Pete Leuszler and Mike Mathis with 15 goldfish apiece.

Along with all the fun, the five Homecoming queen candidates were presented at a special assembly. The candidates were Michele Vennard, Carol Belmonte, Cindy Cywinski, Laura Roman, and Sandy Lee.

Michele Vennard crowned 1981 Homecoming Queen

Following a week of activities, Senior Michele Vennard was crowned Homecoming Queen for 1981. The other candidates were Carol Belmonte, Cindy Cywinski, Sandy Lee and Laura Roman. All five participated in school activities such as cheerleading, student council and Expressions.

On Friday afternoon, students waited anxiously in the gym as Master of Ceremonies Dave McDonald presented the five candidates, followed by the Expressions singing the Homecoming dance theme song "If." The student body was silent, then broke into wild applause as Michele Vennard was named Homecoming Queen.

Students then collected outside to view the annual Homecoming parade. Floats from the various organizations were joined by entries such as the Dirty Dozen, the Brew Crew and the Contemporary Music Club. Receiving first place in the float competition was the HERO float, with all other entries giving it stiff competition. The time spent on the floats was reflected in the many entries, such as the German Club and the class floats.

Homecoming mud washed off for dance

In the Homecoming football game, the players slid around in the mud, and to most of the varsity players it was worth it. Junior Pat Galligan said, "I know we (varsity players) loved every minute of it." Coach Blaney's reaction to the weather was that it didn't bother him. "Playing in the mud didn't really bother the players, and each one gave 100 percent effort even if they didn't play, just for the moral support," Galligan said.

In the game, the Bison scored three touchdowns. The extra points were a kick and a two point conversion. Galligan said even though it was Homecoming the players weren't nervous. "The pressure was on, but we did what had to be done. They (varsity players) were worried only until the fourth quarter because the fourth quarter is ours." The Bison seemed to always come through in the last quarter. It was proven again as the Bison won with a score of 21-12.

The 1981 Homecoming Dance was filled with graduates returning to see their alma mater. Along with the other couples they filled the cafeteria.

The dance took two months to arrange, and the cheerleaders and sponsors spent hours working on it. Between 8 and 11 p.m. 290 couples showed up on Saturday, October 17. Throughout the evening, the band played on and the couples kept dancing. Mrs. Hardey, sponsor of the cheerleaders, said the band was "better than last year's because this band related to the students." The music played by the band ranged from ballads to the Hokey Pokey.

Around 9:15 the Homecoming Queen, Michele Vennard, walked through the flower-covered arch. She was surrounded by the court.

The Friday night before the dance neither the sponsors nor the cheerleaders went home; they stayed to decorate the cafe. No one left until everything was completed.

'Salesman' given shortest rehearsal time of any play

Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman, served as the fall play production. The action takes place in New York City and various places in the mind of salesman Willy Loman. The production was directed by John Marquette and the lighting and set were designed by Leon Fialek, a newcomer to Buffalo Grove's theater department.

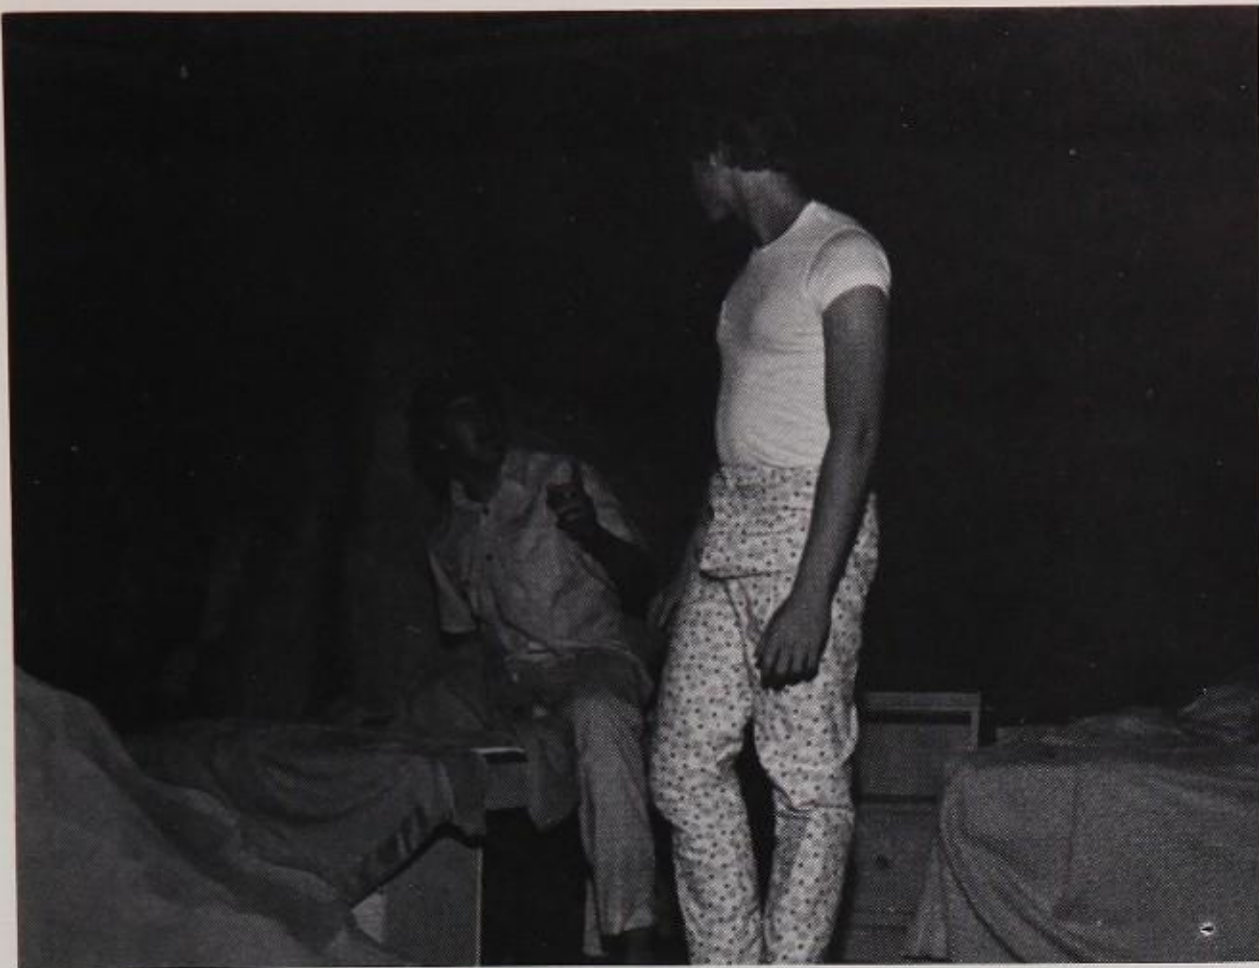

Auditions were held on the third day of school, with Senior Dave McDonald selected to portray the lead role of Willy. The rest of the family, his wife Linda and sons Biff and Happy, was played by new drama members. Laura Martin (Linda) and Ed Nowak (Biff), both juniors, played their first roles, and Marlon Kleinman (Happy) played his first serious role on the Buffalo Grove stage. Tony Kortas and Jim Ferguson, both juniors, played Charley and Bernard, the Lomans' next door neighbors.

Finishing out the cast were Karen Lang, Todd Hustel, Laura Peterson, Kate Dolan, and Dawn Kramer. With the exception of Lang, all were appearing in their first play.

According to Marquette, the play is an attempt by Miller to revive the traditional Greek tragedy. He also said that the play has been referred to as "the" American play. McDonald thought, "The play went very well. It was also well received by the audience, and I was glad of that, especially after only four weeks of rehearsal time."

Band plays holiday song for assembly

Friday, December 18, the last day of classes before Winter Vacation, was the date of the annual winter assembly. Performances for the event were given by Concert Choir, Freshman Chorus, Sweet Harmony, the Expressions, Orchestris and the Symphonic Band.

The mandatory assembly was hosted by Student Council President Carol Belmonte. The first performance was that of the Concert Choir, and it featured solos by Rich David and Renee Kotsovos in "Good King Wenceslas," an old English Christmas carol. Both the Freshman Chorus and Symphonic Band did songs in honor of Chanukkah. According to Band Director Keith Ramsden, the song "Festival of Lights" was written by an area composer especially for the school's band.

The Orchestris' performances were choreographed by Stacey Hobson, Karen Baumgartner, Karen terHorst, and our only foreign exchange student, Susanna Wiklund. The most popular performance, though was "Reindeer Rock," a character routine choreographed by Kim Gard and Peggy Wuerth.

The Assembly ended with the Band's performance of "Sleigh Ride," which was chosen, according to Ramsden, "on the basis of high crowd recognition and audience appeal."

Czepiel, Lacher crowned Queen, King

Silver stars and yellow moons covered the ceilings and walls, with an array of pink, purple, and white streamers above the dance floor. With the band Sundance providing the music, and "Open Arms" by Journey providing the atmosphere, over 140 couples were on hand to enjoy an exciting evening of fun and dance at Winter Ball.

The climax of the evening was the crowning of King Blake Lacher and Queen Lisa Czepiel. Other members of the court included Arden Bareck, Doug Brown, Andrea Bartoli, Steve Griffin, Margie Bolin, Jim Pecoraro, Sharon Duffy, and Jeff Sneed.

Underclass representatives included juniors Julie Jagusch and Dave Whiting, Sophomores Darren Hartmann and Genie Cesarotti, and Freshmen Nancy Pfeiffer and Pete Johlle.

The dance was held on Saturday, February 13, from 8 until 11 p.m., and was sponsored by the Seniors. Class president Arden Bareck commented, "It was really a great dance; I think everyone had a lot of fun."

'Annie' popular with both kids, adults

Irving Berlin's Annie Get Your Gun, presented during the weekend of February 25-March 1, was the winter dramatic performance of the year. Directed by John Marquette and choreographed by Linda Anderson, with sets by Lee Fialek, the show proved popular with both adults and children. As proof of its popularity with children, a special matinee performance was given for the entire student body of Longfellow School. Letters from grateful youngsters were posted in the English Resource Room for several days following the show.

Junior Wally Sheperd was chosen for the male lead of Frank Butler, with Julianne Jagusch and Lisa Czepiel being double-cast in the title role of Annie Oakley. Several children from the area were also in the cast, all of whom either had a sibling in the cast to take care of them, or a watchful parent at the practices.

International Fair attracts young, old

Buffalo Grove High School's third International Fair was sponsored by the International Friendship Club, and attracted over six hundred people both young and old.

Visitors could choose foods and games of French, Spanish, or German culture. The International Show included a French fashion show, a hula dancer, singers, and can-can dancers.

"Dream" first Shakespeare production

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" was the first production of Shakespeare at this school. The comedy, performed May 13 and 14, was also the first play Nanci Soriano directed here.

The play was comprised of four "worlds." The royalty included Steve Rose as Theseus, Carol Minarik as Hippolyta, Tony Kortas as Egeus, Scott Schwenk as Philostrate and Paula Guarini as the attendant. The lovers were Todd Hustel, Demetrius; Laura Martin, Hermia; Dave Kieffer, Lysander; and Lori Durham, Helena. The fairies included Pete Covitz as Oberon, Evelyn Kuo as Titania, Jim Ferguson as Puck and Katie Dolan as Buttercup. Other fairies were Kim Mohn, Cobweb; Shari Schroeder, Violet; Karen Sutula, Moth; Lora Duda, Apricot; Ellen Tieberg, Peaseblossom; and Shari Bine, Mustardseed. The artisans were Karen Lang as Quince, Marlon Kleinman as Nick Bottom (Pyramus), Kirk Fallbacher as Francis Flute (Thisby), Glenn Golsinski as Tom Snout (Wall), Steve Frevert as Robin Starveling (Moonshine), Scott Clark as Snug (Lion), Pete Loceff as Tree and Andy Hustel in his stunning debut as Dog.

The comedy was chosen for performance because of its appeal through use of elegance, love, the supernatural and rowdy humor. The play had to be cut and reworded to make it shorter and easily understandable to those unfamiliar with Shakespeare. Blocking and scenery had to be carefully thought out and arranged, since Shakespeare wrote no stage directions. "The people laughed when Shakespeare planned for them to laugh," said Todd Hustel. "I feel that the funny parts came across that way because Mrs. Soriano accented the Shakespearean humor with obvious physical comedy."

Unstable times fact of life for many in '81

Crises seemed to abound in 1981 throughout the world. As international tempers occasionally flared, resulting in military conflicts, Americans worried about problems closer to home.

A little known group of islands off the coast of South America garnered much attention. Argentina invaded the Falkland Islands, a British possession. Great Britain swiftly retaliated by sending a fleet to retake the islands. Argentina's President Galtieri left office as Argentine citizens rioted to protest his handling of the conflict.

The Middle East remained in the public eye. In Cairo, Egyptian president Anwar Sadat was assassinated by terrorists while viewing a parade. It was a sadly violent end for the man who had for so long crusaded for peace in the Arab World. Israel withdrew its troops from the Sinai in accordance with the Camp David agreement. However, new fighting broke out as Israel invaded Lebanon to flush out Palestinian terrorists, resulting in new unrest.

The American people had plenty to worry about in their own country. President Reagan continued to insist that his economic programs would work, but many people were upset by what they considered to be the misuse of revenue, much of it being directed to the military and away from social programs. Inflation, the jobless rate and interest rates on loans all went higher in 1981 than they had for many years. Close to home, Chicago's John Cardinal Cody, head of the largest Roman Catholic diocese in the United States, died after 50 years of religious service. He died amid a flurry of controversy regarding the use of church funds to aid a long-time friend.

The news was not all bad, however. In Great Britain, worries over economic troubles were pushed aside to celebrate the wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana. In the United States, the space shuttle became the world's first reusable space craft. People the world over looked to these events for a romantic escape from their troubles.

Pay TV causes theater slump

Entertainment was a substantial part of our lives. Though we attended theaters less frequently, our viewing outlets took the form of "pay" and cable-television.

Marking the year was the revival of 3-D, featuring "Comin' At Ya!" and the comeback of "House of Wax", scratch'n'sniff movies, and the introduction of first-run movies at one-dollar-a-ticket.

While theater owners suffered from record-low attendance in March, the last trend of murder/maniac films displayed their usual, plotless gore. The summer success of the Lucas-Spielberg production of "Raiders of the Lost Ark", a cliffhanger structured after serials of the 1930s, was the highest grosser of the season. "Superman II" soared to first place for the largest opening weekend, (orbiting "Star Wars" to second), while "Cannonball Run" shifted into third place. Likewise, Burt Reynolds and Clint Eastwood were pronounced top male draw, Goldie Hawn as female draw.

Survival-of-the-seductive sizzler cially felt, for like holdovers "Raiders" and "Bandits", it matched grosses with new holiday releases such as "Taps", "Buddy, Buddy", and "Ghost Story". In addition, several major studios' works were pulled and replaced by Walt Disney's re-issue of "Cinderella".

The British film "Chariots of Fire", the true story of two English runners competing for the 1924 Olympics, claimed the Academy Award for Best Picture. Czechoslovakian director Milos Foreman's uncanny knack to reflect American life on the big-screen intertwined us with "Ragtime", which marked 82-year-old James Cagney's first screen appearance in 21 years. French director Louis Malle dealt us "Atlantic City," "Breaker Morant" the classic courtroom drama, was issued from Australia.

Film historian Kevin Brownlow's 1968 world-wide search successfully ended in the reconstructing of four and a half of the original six hours of Abel Gance's 1929 silent-epic "Napolean", premiering in Rome accompanied by a live orchestra.

trovsky arose when East Germany banned the Walt Disney feature, "Night Crossing", which dramatized the true tale of two families fleeing from East Germany. Walt Disney president's released statement read that if they had born witness to the freedom of the individual, they were proud of it.

Michael "The Deer Hunter" Cimino directed the $45 million, 219 minute "Heaven's Gate". Even after United Artist's re-edited the film to 153 minutes, the film failed to draw. Contrary to expectations, extravagant expenditures were no less scarce after "Gate's" failure. Eleven holiday pictures, including "Reds", were financed for over $20 million. Mega-buck pictures in production were "by exception" situations, as potentially smash hits. It seems future movie expenditures will be limited to the musical/science-fantasy genres.

The stereotyping that younger audiences are turned-off by subject matter not directly pertaining to their generation was rewritten due to Alan Alda's "Four Seasons". Alda wrote, directed, and starred in this sensitive film, dealing with middle-aged couples and their problems, which turned out to be one of the most successful 'seasonal' hits of the teenage sector!

Tragically, John Belushi died at the age of 33 due to an over-dose of narcotics. Belushi got his start at the Second City Theater, later to find his fame on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live" program. The Chicago-born and raised actor eventually made several movies, most notably "Animal House", and two which were filmed in Chicago, ("Continental Divide" and "The Blues Brothers"). He was known for his trend-setting remarks, responding "But nO-o-ooo-o!" and his cry for "Chiz Burgers!"

Actress Natalie Wood drowned while attempting to climb into a dighy off her yacht. Her death ceased production of the film

"Body Heat", the double identity of "The French Lieutenant's Woman", gritty police realism in "Prince of the City", and the first film to successfully blend past comedy formulas, "Arthur", propelled the summer boxoffice economy into financial bliss. Special visual effects of "The Howling", "Dragonslayer", and "Clash of the Titans" thrilled audiences. Autumn brought "Time Bandits", whose 'timely' release kept the boxoffice receipts rolling.

Although Christmas pictures boasted big-named celebrities and hefty budgets, holiday reappings were grim. "Stripes" return for a second successful season was espe-

"My Dinner with Andre" consisted mostly of two men's dinner conversation, yet proved widely successful. "Quest for Fire", man's primitive search for the magic properties of the flame, and Francis Coppla's "One From the Heart", where lighting was the star, gave the year its variety. The specially animated "Heavy Metal", which broke even before a single ticket was sold, with the teenage pranks of "Porky's" and "Private Lessons", grew into the school-oriented favorites.

Henry Fonda and Katherine Hepburn met for their first time for the filming of "On Golden Pond". The experienced combination earned best actor and actress Oscars. Con-

"Brainstorm". Paul Lynde was found dead at the wheel of his car, apparently due to a severe bout with alcoholism. While intoxicated, William Holden bled to death due to a head injury. The actor was 63.

Radio continued its rapid growth of the 70s, concluding its first $4 billion year.

A summer-long writers' strike forced networks to resort to big-named personalities to draw ratings. James Garner returned in a series he helped to create over 20 years ago, "Bret Maverick". Police drama "McClain's Law" starred James Arness, and in "Love, Sidney", Tony Randall was a caring guardian. Ex-football player Mer-

Pope John II, and the killing of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, fed the fire for gun-control.

Bill Kurtis, Chicago's top-rated anchorman, left his local newscast to become anchor of "CBS Morning News". Melancholy band-director Lawrence Welk burst his last bubble to wrap up a 27 year run, and "Late Night with David Letterman" replaced Tom Snyder's "Tomorrow" show.

CBS paid a reported $25 million for three runs of the original "Star Wars", making it the highest paid film for television broadcast.

"General Hospital", the number-one soap-opera filmed the wedding

REO Speedwagon's album "Hi-Fidelity" topped the charts at number-one for 24 weeks. "Freeze Frame", the huge album success by J. Geils band, induced the return of their past hit, "Love Stinks".

A free re-union concert by Paul Simon and Art Garfunkel drew the largest crowd ever to gather on Central Park, New York, (500,000).

Simon and Garfunkel had not performed together for over eleven years. Thus the event was a reminder of fond memories from the 60s. Folk oracles of the 60s, Peter, Paul, and Mary, were back together, too, but the only thing that seemed to have been different was the amount of hair!

Newly formed "Asia" was the collaboration of artists from several supergroups. Band members included Carl Palmer (ELP), Steve Howe and Geoffrey Downes of Yes, and John Wetton (King Crimson).

Ozzy Osbourne announced his solo career. His solo albums, "Blizzard of Oz" and "Diary of a Madman" were the start of yet another profitable venture for the former "Black Sabbath" singer.

By churning out consistently catchy pop singles, the all-female band "The Go-Gos" became the symbol of the all-American rock and roll success story. On the same note, former "Runaway" Joan Jett commanded a legion of followers with her first solo attempts.

lin Olson played "Father Murphy", and the clumsy superman "Greatest American Hero" tickled our funny bones.

Video-games spread to epidemic conditions with the new addition of "Pac-Man". Cable-television sprung leaks in the major networks' grosses, popping up in "sportsvision" and "pay-TV" formats.

Lasting almost two decades, the oldest surviving rock band, the Rolling Stones, toured America, raking in over $40 million in ticket sales alone. An estimated two million fans attended the spectacle. Rod Stewart's 40-city tour included a live telecast from the L.A. Forum, with special guest Tina Turner.

Grant Tinker replaced Fred Silverman as NBC Chairman, breathing cleaner, higher caliber programs over the airways.

Television's insights into global events sparked live coverage on many locations. Assassination attempts on President Reagan and of Lucas Lorenzo Spencer and Laura Weber Baldwin as part of the show. Millions of people stayed home from their place of business to witness the event. The extravagant fairytale wedding of Prince Charles to Lady Denise Spencer caused a network scramble for attention.

"Johnny Goes Home", a sentimental look at Johnny Carson's visit to his hometown of Norfolk, Nebraska, probed the human side of the late-night king.

M*A*S*H announced it would go on for a partial eleventh season with its current cast intact into 1983. "Barney Miller" saw its last laugh early 1982.

Television's versions of two vintage tales were the result of hard work and quality performances. John Steinbeck's literary classic "Of Mice and Men" starred Randy Quaid and Robert Blake. The Broadway play "The Elephant Man" came to television without diluting the standards reached on stage.

Prom at Hamilton Hotel “A night to remember”

On May twenty-first, 323 couples went to the Hamilton Hotel in Itasca Illinois to celebrate Prom. ‘A Night to Remember’ was the theme of Prom, with “Endless Love” being the theme song.

The evening began at 6:30 when the couples voted for king and queen of Prom. Rich David and Karen Baumgartner were voted king and queen. Prom court included Mike Kilbourne, Cathy Mauney, Pat Johlle, Missy Gaul, John Kieffer, and Kathy Griffith. Sue Pils, Mark Maltese, Sue Witt, and Matt Kapinos were tied for princes and princesses of Prom.

A six course dinner was served at 8 o'clock. Dinner consisted of french onion soup, salad, roast top sirloin, a baked potatoe, and zucchini. Chocolate mousse was served for dessert.

The group ‘Synod’ performed at Prom for the fourth year in a row. Their music included songs from the Beach Boys, Billy Squier, and Journey. “I thought that the band was excellent. It seemed as though everybody danced at one time or another, so they all must’ve enjoyed the music too,” said Dave McDonald.

Commencement of 550 fills gymnasium

Buffalo Grove High School's Eighth Annual Commencement took place in the Howard J. Lester Gymnasium, on June 10.

The processional featured the concert band performing Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" as 550 graduates gathered before an audience that filled the bleachers to capacity.

Introducing the ceremony was Susie Griffith, Secretary of the Class. Lisa Czepiel sang a solo of our national anthem as graduating male members removed their caps, and Keith Ramsden conducted the concert band. Then Czepiel, as Vice-President of the Class, welcomed one and all. Becca Green, Treasurer of the Class, gave the Invocation.

Farewell speeches by Karen Lang and Marian Wysocki graced the ceremony, setting the mood to "dream a little." Arden Bareck, President of the Class, gave the remarks.

Principal Dr. Clarence M. Miller gave the Introduction of the Class of 1982, followed by a response by Mrs. Marilyn Quinn, a member of the District 214 Board of Education. Richard R. Schnell and Mr. Normon B. Patberg, Assistant Principals, presented the roll call of the graduates as Quinn, along with another board member, presented the diplomas.

Valedictorians were Magdolna Bona, Glenn Gloinski, and Marian Wysocki. There was only one salutatorian, Christopher Freiler. Fifty-one graduates qualified for National Honor Society. The farewells concluded in the fieldhouse.

“Never say die” Bison clinch conference title

Inscribed on their helmets, pads, and minds were the words “Never say Die!” This was the motto and attitude of the Varsity football team.

Although they finished the regular season with a record of 5-5, they clinched the conference title with five wins and only one loss. Players Tony Mirabelli and Max Yasger commented, “We had a lot of ups and downs during the season, but we still met all of our goals.”

Some exceptional players on the team were Pat Mandziara, who was named to the all-state team, and all-conference members Doug Brown, Pat Johlie, Gary Dekoker, and Mark McCleary.

Head Coach Grant Blaney commented, “We took an inexperienced group of guys and went on as a team to become conference champs.”

Freshman A undefeated for first time

Setting a standard of excellence, the Freshman A Football team became the first freshman team in Buffalo Groves history to end their season undefeated with a record of 8-0. The team scored a total of 332 points during the season, while its opponents scored only 21.

Assisting the team in its victories was half back Steve Vinci. Vinci scored 18 touchdowns. Coach Richard Schnell credited the teams success to the players' ability and hard work. The high point of the season for the team came when they defeated Barrington 18-13. After the Barrington game the team seemed to get stronger, according to Schnell.

The Freshman B Football team also ended a successful season with a record of 5-3. The team scored 66 points during the season, 38 of which were scored by running back Brian Carey. Carey also rushed for 500 yards with the help of a strong offensive line.

Coach Gible credited the team's success to their enthusiasm and ability to work well together. "The team improved a lot; they beat some good teams," commented Gible.

Record breaking performances were something the Sophomore

Football team never lacked. Leading the team to an overall record of 4-5 were tri-captains Mike Greig, Mike McDonell and Dave King. Greig was the team's leading scorer with 54 points during the season. Some of the records set by Greig include the most points in one game with 26; the longest punt by a sophomore, 59 yards; rushing 235 yards during the season; and the most carries by a sophomore, 147. Typing the record for touchdown receptions was Chris Cobe with three.

Other leading scorers for the team include Darren Hartmann with 20 points, Chris Cobe with 18 points, and Scott Walker with 14 points.

Defense strongest ever; varsity soccer loses state

A strong defense helped Varsity soccer end its season with a record of 10-5-3. "The team played well together; there was a strong defense," commented Coach John Erfort.

The team won their first state tournament game against Carmel with a score of 3-0, but then went on to lose against Stevenson 2-1. The Bison lost because they were up against a good team and couldn't score enough, according to Erfort.

Starting varsity consisted of nine seniors and three juniors. Team captains were Brian Hart, John McDonnell, and Blake Lacher. Hart was voted most valuable player while Lacher was leading scorer.

The varsity set two records for fewest goals allowed with 11 and fewest losses with five.

Lack of experience caused the Sophomore Soccer team to end their season with a record of 2-12-1. "There were a lot of close games," commented Coach Jim Rubly. Five of the team's losses were by one point. The leading scorer for the team was Joe Randazzo, who was also voted most valuable player. Even through all their losses, the team exhibited enthusiasm, according to Rubly.

The Freshman Soccer team had its best season ever with a record of 7-3-2. Five of the team's wins were shutouts. Leading scorers for the team were Peter Stadler with eight goals, Jim Patrician with seven goals, and Mike Crowley with seven also.

Dedication, team effort, and aggressive playing were what made the team a success, said Coach Frank De Rosa.

Few runners participate in 0-8 season

Lack of runners caused the Boys' Cross Country team to end their season with a record of 0-8. "There just weren't enough people; only one senior and two juniors returned to varsity," commented Coach Bob Koralik.

"Even though the team's scores were low, we had good individual records," said varsity runner Greg Beeber.

The high point of the Boys' Freshmen-Sophomore team was coming in first in the North Division. "Coach Koralik helped by running with us during all the practices, which helped to push the team," said Frank Walaitis. Leading the girls' team were Kristy Wedl and Nancy Johnson. Wedl placed 23 out of 161 in sectionals. Johnson broke the Bison course record at Camelot with the time of 12:14. Overall, the girls placed ninth in conference and had a season record of 3-5.

Borkowski state finalist

Varsity Girls' tennis had a tough season finishing with a 2-12 record. The team had mostly new players, with only Lori Borkowski and Sue Lengemann having played varsity before. The team was young, with three sophomores and one freshman, none of whom had played varsity.

State finalist Lori Borkowski led the team with a 13-12 record. She won in the first round 6-2, 6-0, and then was eliminated in the second round. Borkowski said, "My coaches always say that whether you win or lose a match you always need the experience you gain. Well, this season, I gained a lot!"

Second singles player Sue Lengemann was the team's second top scorer, finishing with a 9-8 record. She made it to the quarter finals in the district, and then was eliminated from there.

The only freshman varsity player, Lara Solonickne, was the third top player. Playing at third singles, she won four games for the team.

Junior varsity finished with a disappointing 2-10 record. The team consisted of the largest number of freshmen ever out for tennis. For all but three of the players, this was a new experience.

The first singles player, Tammy Pietz, was the junior varsity's best player. She finished the season with a 4-7 record.

The second doubles players, Jayashree Thakkar and Kay Kimura, were the team's next leading players. They had two wins.

"I think we were very close and supportive as a team. We lost more games than we wanted to, which was pretty frustrating," commented sophomore Lisa Joyner.

Inexperience causes 0-12 swim record

In spite of a poor record, the Girls' Swim team had a good season, according to Coach Rick Kerwin. The team's record of 1-12 was due to a lack of experience. "This is the largest team Buffalo Grove's ever had, but it's also a young team," said Kerwin.

Robin Rees broke her own record in breaststroke with a time of 1:17:67. The team's best event was the 200 medley relay, which consisted of Lisa Oleson (backstroke), Robin Rees (breaststroke), Mary Zukowski (butterfly), and Becky Zukowski (freestyle). The relay placed eighth in the District meets.

The team had a lot of selfdiscipline, enthusiasium, and dedication, according to Kerwin. Part of this was due to tri-captains Carol Ann Doucette, Robin Rees, and Mary Zukowski.

Second best golf year; varsity, frosh rebuild

Finishing fifth overall, Varsity Golf enjoyed a pleasant season of 14-4, and a conference record of 10-3.

Varsity Golf coach Fred Van Iten seemed happy over the team's results. "When we beat Fremd, it put us in first (place), but we got beat later on. The kids seemed to have already peaked from prior experience. (By) developing what they (already) knew, golf served as an outlet."

Two school records were set, as the team averaged 44.6 in conference dual meets, and 88.6 for all tournaments.

Sophomore Mike Jonas was praised as the "best player" with the lowest dual meet (1dm) average overall of 41.5, and a low conference of 41. Mike Lindholm had the 1dm score of 36, a conference average of 41, and the lowest tournament score and average of 79 and 83.2 respectively. Scott Rech had a 1dm average overall of 42.1 and a conference record of 41.3, and finished ninth at the conference tournament at Hilldale.

Captain Mike Lindholm said the team could have done better, and it did not work up to their potential. He said that it seemed when one played poorly, everyone else did, too.

Junior Dave Tuman viewed the year as the second best in golf history. "Mr. Van Iten kept things organized (and) kept us going- he tried to build us up to district meets, but somehow it didn't work out. We had a really good team, but we played terrible in district meets." Tuman told how Jon Nii did not qualify to participate during the year's meets, but played very well at the "huge" playoff, qualifying for the conference tournament. "He allowed me to play (the tournament) for him," Tuman concluded.

"I just kept them up on pointers and progress. We had a good nucleus of kids, and next year's feedback looks good," said Mr. Van Iten.

Freshman-Sophomore Golf was 7-11 overall, with 5-8 in conference. Coach Tom Dineen explained, "I wasn't expecting as good a team because all the former students went to varsity. I explained to the team this would be a rebuilding year, and we concentrated on that all year."

The Freshman-Sophomore low team round was 191 at BG versus Hersey, and the team average was 201.9. They were tied for fifth in the conference standing and had an overall finish of twelfth place.

Todd Rhodes was the "most consistent player" with the low individual round of 42, and an average of 48.5. Kent Mathis had an average of 51.6, followed by John Kim and Mike Kilar with 53 and 53.9 respectively.

"As a coach, I simply corrected major flaws. It was important the kids played all year 'round. Golf is a strict game, and teaches self control and discipline," remarked Mr. Dineen.

Tough conference holds back varsity volleyball

Bison's volleyball team had a tough, competitive conference this season. Out of twelve games, nine were losses to teams ranked in the top twenty in the state. There were a lot of close contests, mostly against Wheeling. Coach Paula VonGerichten thought the second game against Palatine was the best of the season.

Seniors made up two-thirds of the team: Debbie Groot, Missy Gaul, Paula Carver, Diane Harnish, Barb Bloethner, and Judy Wierauch. Groot, who was captain this season, and Gaul were voted most valuable players and set new spiking records. Carver set a new record for ball setting and serving.

VonGerichten wished that they had won more. "As far as a team goes, they were very supportive of each other." From a coach's standpoint, it was probably the most enjoyable team I've coached."

K. McCabe takes ninth in state

Led by an experienced team, Varsity Girls' Gymnastics finished the regular season with a 9-4 record, also obtaining fifth place in the MSL conference with a score of 111.4

Senior Kim McCabe participated in the state competition at Palatine, where she placed second for floor exercise and won ninth place all-around. She had also been ranked first in state with a top all-around score of 9.31. This was McCabe's first year on the team, as she previously belonged to a private club.

The junior varsity team ended the season 5-7. With three freshmen, three sophomores and one junior, they placed seventh in their conference meet.

Varsity best at Rockford; Jim Messineo sets record

After a slow start, the Boys' Varsity basketball team became more successful and spirited. Their overall record was 5-11 with a 6-6 conference record.

At the Rockford Christmas Tournament, the Varsity squad came in third place, which to Coach Paul Grady was one of their better achievements. Late in December, they were ranked in the "Top 10" of most Chicago area polls.

The starting line-up varied from game to game. Tim Monson, John Curto, Jim Dyer, Paul Peterson, Jim Topole, Gary DeKoker, and Rich Lawrecki all started at one time or another. The team voted Lawrecki "Most Valuable Player," and according to Grady, he was the most improved player. The team's honorary captain was Jim Tapole. There was one sophomore on this year's squad, Paul Peterson. There were a total of 20 players, including Mike Gaul, who was injured for the entire season.

Twenty-nine points in one game was the most ever in the district. This was accomplished by Junior Varsity's Jim Messineo, who was also the team's overall leading scorer.

The team's record was 10-3 overall and 9-3 in conference competition, which earned them the second place conference trophy.

Jon Jacobs and Tony Vourax were team captains. Pete Drevline was the leading rebounder, and according to Coach Dick Wiseman, Chris Petersen was the most improved player on the squad.

Starting forwards were Chris Petersen and Pete Drevline. The center was Tony Vourax and the guards were Jim Messineo, Jon Jacobs, and John Schick. Jacobs and Schick alternated throughout the season.

"Junior Varsity gives everyone a chance to play; it is also a time to discover who can help us in Varsity next year," commented Weisman.

Underclass records broken; improvement after December

Ending their season with a record of 9-6, the Freshman A team hit two major high points. One was their conference win against Barrington. The other was their second place finish at the Antioch Tournament. Second place was the highest ever won at Freshman level by Buffalo Grove.

The starting lineup consisted of five main players: Jay Spurr, Steve Lutz, Mark Novesel, Ray Bandemer and Derek Fabiszak.

According to Coach Gress, the Freshman B team's goal was to win almost all their games. With a record of 10-5, they came close.

The team had a slow start at the beginning of the year then came back to win six in a row. They came in second place in conference with a record of 8-4.

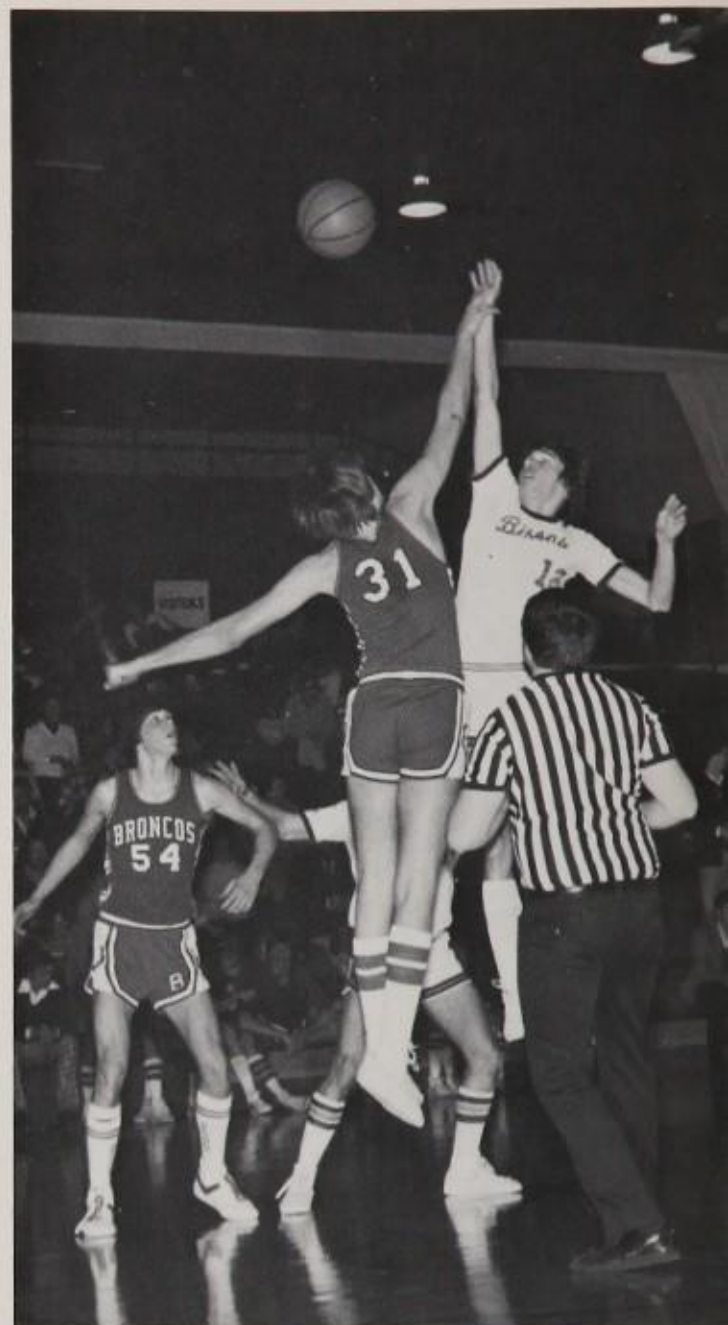

Gress felt the players got better as the year progressed by playing more like a team. Dan Kirschten and Andy Falter were most improved players in Gress' opinion. Kirschten and Falter were also in the starting lineup along with Ken Moressey, Ken Kosemzak, Pat Carew, Ed Wang, and Mike Lach.

"There was no best player," said Gress "It was a team effort." It was no problem bringing the team together from the different junior high schools, said Gress. Most of the boys had played with the park district before so they had already practiced together.

The Sophomore team finished their season with a record of 7-13. Coach Rich Roberts felt that before December the players made too many mistakes and did not realize what it took to win.

Towards the end of December their record improved. "They learned how to play as a team," said Roberts.

Varsity Emphasizes Youth; Groot Claims Two Records

Youth was the best feature of the Girls' Varsity basketball team according to Coach Tom Dineen. The team consisted of four seniors, two juniors, and five sophomores. "We made a lot of progress with our young kids," said Dineen.

The team's overall record was 9-16. In conference the girls won five games and lost seven. They ended their season in the regional championship game by losing to Wheeling.

Debbie Groot was voted Most Valuable Player. Michelle Casella was voted Most Improved Player. Debbie Groot was also the team's highest scorer with 16.2 points per game.

Two Bison records were broken by Debbie Groot for most rebounds in a game and most rebounds in a season.

Freshmen Win MSL Title; Sullivan Tops JV Scoring

With an impressive conference record of 9-3, the Freshmen basketball team clinched the Mid-Suburban League North title. Their conference record was 12-4. Coach John Erfort said there were no "stars" on the team. They were all responsible for their first place title.

Erfort was proud of the team's two great comebacks against Palatine and Fremd. In their game with Palatine, they were behind at the halftime 16-4, but won the game in overtime. When playing Fremd, they were behind 20-6 at halftime, but won that also in overtime.

"They carried on the traditional blivitt" spirit to the fullest," said Erfort.

"We were held back by injuries all season, but towards the end of the season we pulled together and worked as a team," said sophomore Lisa Eischen of the junior varsity team. With three freshmen and the rest sophomores, they ended their season with a record of 2-13.

Sophomore Cathy Sullivan, point guard, was the most improved player. She became the high scorer and strongest player for the team.

NcNeely Qualifies For State Competition

Sending senior Jim McNeely downstate was the highlight of the wrestling season. McNeely, wrestling at 105 pounds, ended the season with a record of 37-5. He placed second in conference, and was the district and sectional champ. McNeely qualified for state but then was eliminated.

Varsity wrestling ended with a season record of 7-16 and a conference record of 3-3. In the Rex Lewis Tournament, Buffalo Grove placed sixth. This was the first team tournament in Illinois history. In the conference tournament they placed ninth, sixth in the district tournament and twelfth in the sectional tournament.

Besides McNeely, other wrestlers with notable performances were Bill Sykstus, Mark Walters, Marc Pearlman, Dave Marinkovich, Jim Faulhaber, Matt Furlong, Tony Rivotto, Scott Kozemzak, Scott Wysocki and Peter Leuzler.

Junior Varsity I finished its season with a record of 5-13-1. The JVII team was able to finish with a record of 4-4. The wrestlers with distinguished records were Rich Wayne, Mike McDonnell, Glen McGowean, Bill Newman, and Jim Faulhaber.

Over the summer, most of these wrestlers participated in a camp, where they wrestled as many as 25-30 matches. Coach Tony Jungblut felt this showed a very special effort on the part of the teams, as this paid off in the regular season.

The freshman wrestlers ended their season with an impressive record of 11-3-1.

Thompson and Gjertsen lead Varsity swimmers

Varsity co-captains John Gjertsen and Sean Thompson led the Varsity team of mainly sophomores and freshmen to a season record of four wins and six losses.

The freshman-sophomore team had a season record of four wins and six losses and finished sixth in conference. At the conference meet, "Jeff Wargo really came around for us!" commented Coach Kerwin.

Every freshmen and sophomore record but one was broken. Seven out of the eleven records were broken by Brian McKay. McKay was named most valuable swimmer and he was varsity's overall high point winner. Todd Horn-dash broke the 100 yard breast stroke with 1:04.92. Mark Cavins broke the one meter diving record with 1:44.5. Both Bison Medley Relay records were also broken.

"At the end of this season we saw four guys leave their mark on the all-time top twenty-five varsity scores," said Kerwin.

McKay now is sixth on the list with a total of 318½ points. Twelfth is Gjertson with 236 points. sixteenth is Horndash with 210½ points and finally twentieth is Gilbert with 182½ points.

Varsity bowlers roll to ninth in state

Both the varsity and junior varsity bowling teams went downstate after beating out five teams for the district championship. Overall they finished ninth in State competition. In conference the varsity team came in third.

"My expectations have been met," said Mr. Fiegan about the junior varsity bowling team. "I'm very pleased even though we have mostly freshman and sophomores. They have done as well as I had hoped." Their final standing was second in conference.

Some of the star varsity bowlers turned in outstanding performances. Sophomore Denise Kochan had an average of 167. Senior Nancy Weisberger had an average score of 165. Senior Linda Gawlik had an average of 155.

According to Kochan, "I felt the season was good but it could have been better. We all don't bowl well at the same time." Senior Linda Gawlik said, "We started out inconsistent, but now we're finally getting things together."

Badminton after the first three meets had a 2-19 game record on Varsity and an 0-15 game record on junior varsity. According to Betty Pruitt, head of both teams, "Our goal this year was for each player to reach their potential by the end of the season."

Pruitt felt that not enough girls tried out but was pleased with the performances of the girls who did.

Sophomore Kati Bona said, "It's a lot of work but winning some of the games is a nice reward."

According to Pruitt, the special part of the season was that the girls on the teams had "More competitive personalities."

Poised and ready for action, sophomore Kati Bona is ready for the birdie.

Varsity ends season with 4-7 record

One word to describe the Varsity Gymnastics team would be small. The team consisted of three seniors and three juniors. All arounders were Ross Bourbonnais, Eric Schmidt, and Gary Dumrauf.

The team ended their season with an overall record of 4-7. The high score of the season was 136 against Wheeling. The highpoint of the season was beating Arlington by seven tenths of a point, which enabled the Bison to participate in conference. "This season was tough because the team was so small," said Vic Chin.

Underclass gymnastics had two distinct teams, Freshmen and Sophomore. The Sophomore team ended their season with an overall record of 9-4. Chris Scanlan was chosen Most Valuable Player. Mark Cavens was voted Most Improved Player. Specialists on the team were Bret Hooghkirk in tumbling and vaulting and Jeff Dumrauf on highbars.

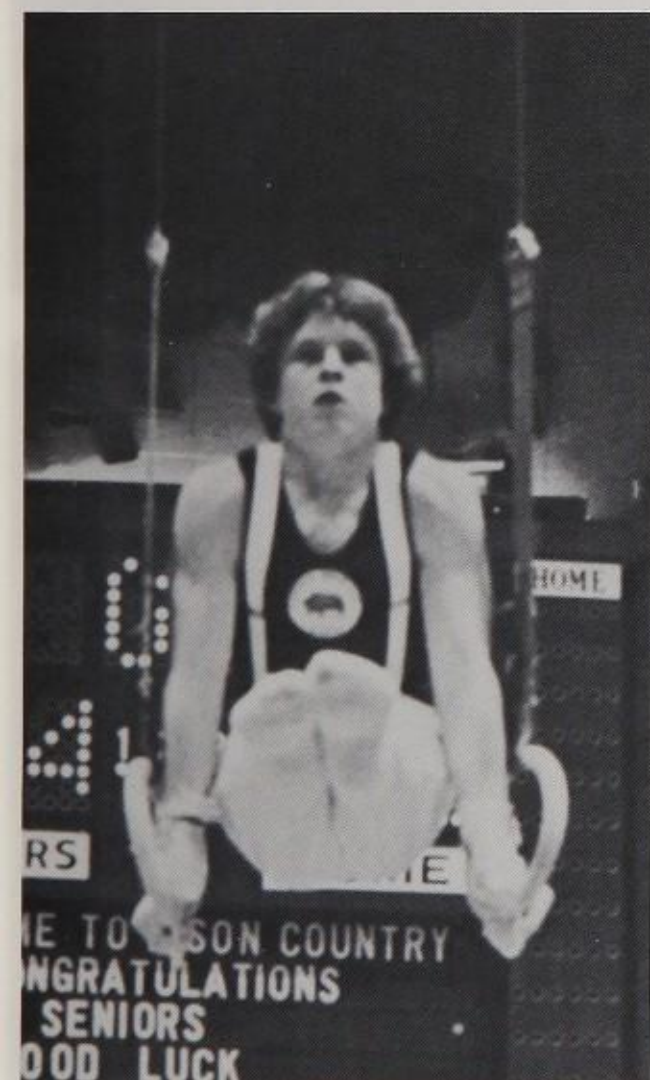

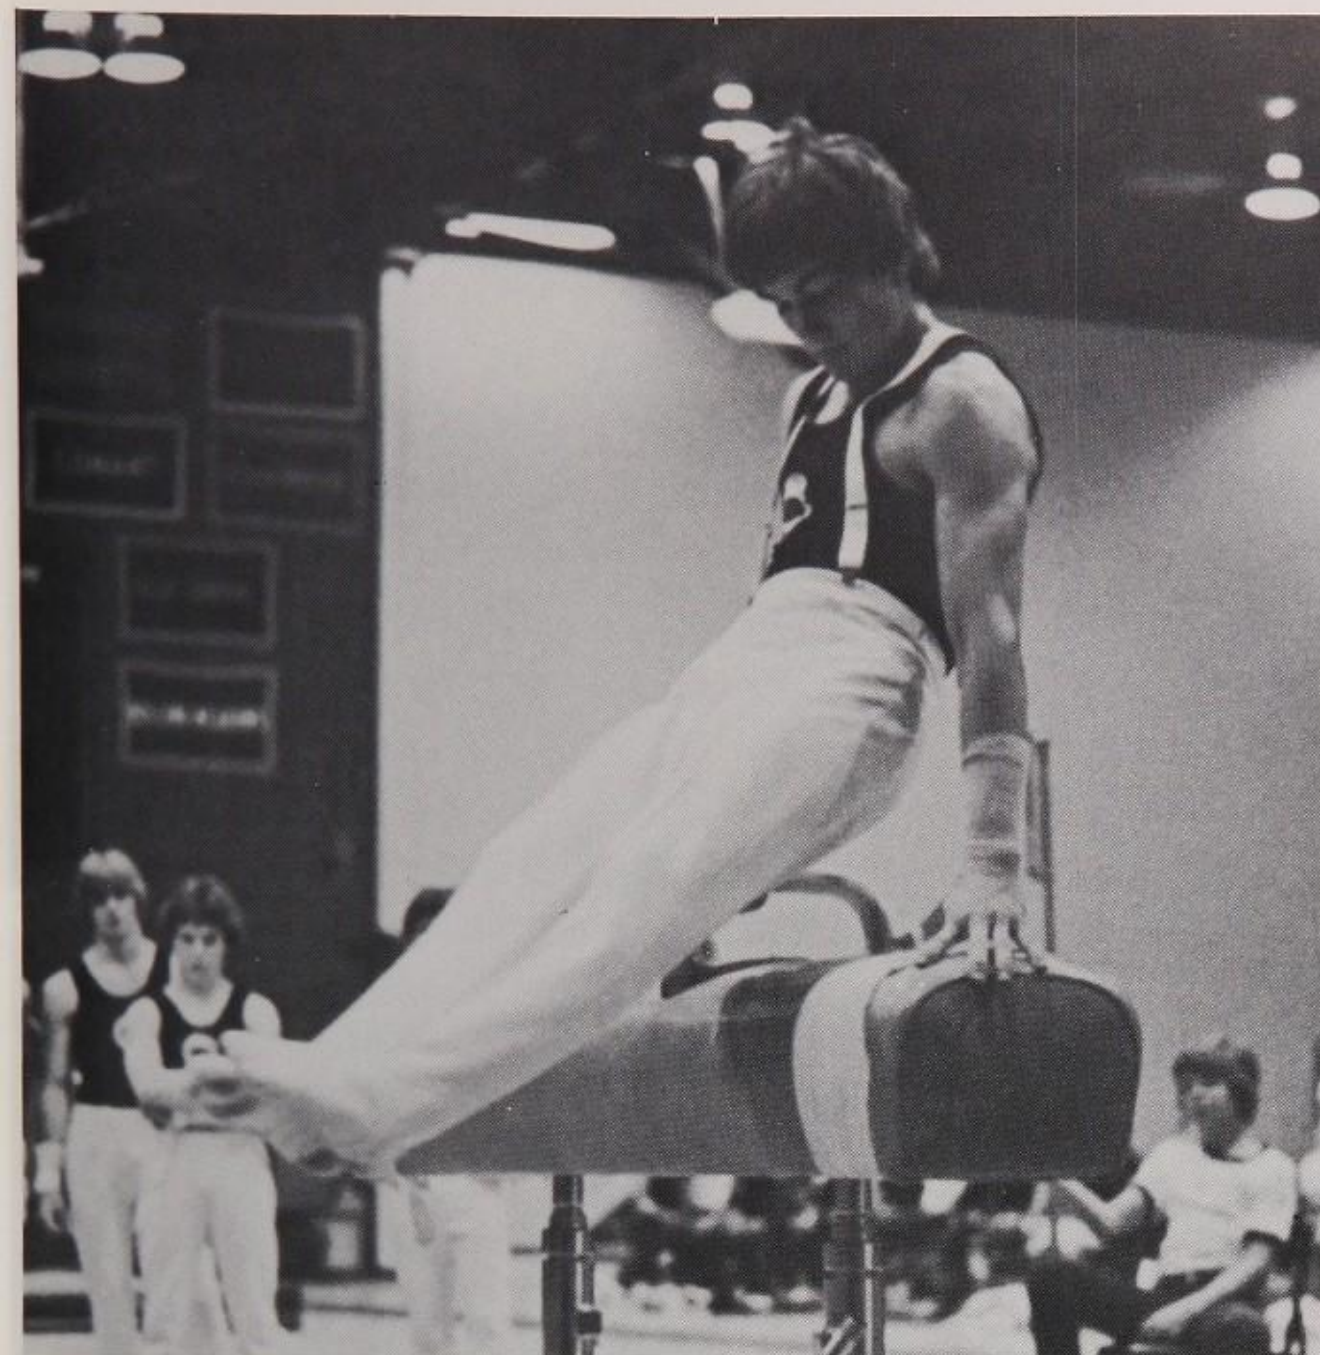

The highpoint of the season was going to conference as a team and doing their best while there, according to Coach Rich Keller.

The Freshman team ended their season with an overall record of 8-5. Steve DeLattre was chosen Most Valuable and Most Improved Player. Specialists on the Freshmen team were Eric Panic on sidehorse and Ken Salyers on rings.

Inexperience key factor in poor showing

Inexperienced pitching is what gave the varsity softball team a 5-12 record. According to Ann Penstone, "Pitching is the thing."

The team was "very young," said Penstone. There were six sophomores, five juniors, and only four seniors. The seniors were Diana Wegner, Debbie Groot, Paula Coleantonio, and Beth Pfeifer, "who were also the best players," added Penstone.

Team captains were Paula Coleantonio and Beth Pfeifer. Most improved players, according to Coach Penstone, were Shelagh More and Sandy Rosenthal.

Ann Penstone was a new coach, so naturally the team's techniques changed a little. The main changes were in practice and strategy.

The high point of the year was Beth Pfeifer's home run in the seventh inning to beat Palatine.

J.V. softball plagued by inconsistency

Inconsistency was blamed by the Junior Varsity softball team for its 4-9 conference record.

Inconsistency hurt the team the most and they were still looking for their best game.

On the team there were 22 girls of whom only 10 could play at one time. Probably the two best players were sophomore Nancy Button, who played centerfield and freshman Stephanie Pergola, who played left field.

Coach Dave Froelich wanted improvement throughout the year but toward the end of the season the defense had problems, even though they started out well.

"There was a lot of individual talent on our team, but we really didn't work together," commented sophomore Linda Zelonky.

Hitting slump robs varsity of .500 year

"This year was a tough year due to the fact that we lost a lot of seniors; also we didn't hit as well as we could have," commented Senior Kyle Grove of this year's Varsity baseball squad.

There were 20 members on the team, 10 juniors and 10 seniors. After starting out the season with an 2-0 record, they had a losing streak and went to a record of 2-4, and mid-way through the season they were 4-8.

On Sunday, May 9, they took a trip to Wrigley Field, had a tour of the locker room, and went out on the playing field.

According to Junior Mike Yosenick, "the first three games were really great but then the next couple of games we played poorly ... our team was just in a hitting slump. Coach Bill Wurl, the new varsity coach, felt that the defense was solid, but they needed help on their hitting. Wurl also felt that, "Realistically we can't win the conference title, but we want to finish at .500."

Most talented sophomores in many years: Dineen

A long stride gives extra impetus to the ball.

"It was a pleasure to coach these guys," said Sophomore coach Tom Dineen. "They were the most talented group of players in a long time," he added.

New coaching brought on higher expectations and everyone played up to his capability. There were very little mistakes. The high point was a come-from-behind win over Barrington. They were down by five in the last inning and came back to win it.

According to Dineen the sophomore team was "extremely talented and they all had a good time and learned something from it."

It was not hard for Coach Frank DeRosa to bring the Freshman A team together from other leagues. He said, "They like baseball, they want to play and know how to."

Their high point was in a game against Schaumburg. They threw a Saxon out in the sixth at the plate to keep the score 5-2. In the last inning they made three runs to win the game. Another good point was that the players learned to steal signals.

The players were taught speed, aggressiveness, pitching, and dedication. They learned to be better players.

The best part of the season was the support they gave to each other, the encouragement.

Head coach Bill Wurl made some changes in the way the baseball teams played. The Freshman B team worked on being more aggressive in running the bases.

The B team got better by "understanding the types of commands they were given. They were realizing what they were doing wrong," said Coach Innocenti.

Their high point of the season was a 2-0 win over Hersey. The pitcher gave up only one hit and the defense played great.

Thompson finishes third in districts

Captain Greg Thompson led the varsity tennis team with a record of 25-10. He finished fifth in conference, and third in districts in the North Division.

"Thompson was the best overall player in the history of Buffalo Grove tennis," said Coach Don Biere of his number one singles player.

Thompson had the most wins any tennis player has ever had with a total of seventy-seven in four years. He was named the senior 'most valuable player'. With his other accomplishments, he also won the Niles West Invitational.

The team, as a whole, finished with a record of 4-13. Biere moved up several freshmen and sophomores to the varsity level when he realized they would improve more rapidly on the varsity level. Freshman Dan Urbain was the most successful of the younger players.

The freshman and sophomore team finished with a record of 11-8. They were the best freshman and sophomore team for tennis.

Freshmen Al Specter and Jerry Specter, playing first singles and second singles respectively, both finished seventh in the conference. Tim Petersen, also a freshman, had the most wins for the team. He finished fifth in the conference.

Girls tenth in conference, boys twelfth

Eighth place in conference was the goal set for girls' track by coach Gible. Though the goal wasn't met by finishing tenth indoors, the girls did well competing. Kim Wedl lowered her two mile record by seven seconds, to 12:05.

Gible explained that the team was young and that's why he made the realistic goal of eighth place in conference. Point scorers were Eileen Kuzel ('85), Julie Demmon ('84), Terri Girardi ('85) and Nancy Johnson ('82).

Conference champs for the indoor and the outdoor track season are what the boys Freshmen-Sophomore track team were at the end of the season. The Varsity team ended up tenth for the indoor season and twelfth for the outdoor season.

Overall the boys track team did very well. All teams put together received a total of 153 trophies, medals, and ribbons and also set a total of 21 school records.

Among the individuals, Brian Hart was elected Varsity Captain and Most Valuable Player. Doug Klumpp was the discus champ at the Falcon Invite.

Fruitful season includes 214 tournament

The Individual Events Speech team had a very fruitful season which ranged from hosting District 214's annual speech tournament in November to attending the State Speech Finals at Bloomington in February.

Coach Jill Rosenbaum said, "We had a much greater crossover from Debate and Drama, and vice versa, and that made for a stronger team. I hope the trend continues in the future." Two crossovers from Drama, Lisa Gregory and Jim Ferguson, took second place in Humorous Duet Acting at the tournament held at home in November.

The tournament, the first of the season, was planned over a period of several months. More than twenty-five schools, some from as far away as sixty miles, were in attendance. Eleven events, ranging from Speech to Interpretation to Drama, made-up the day's activities, with nearly every room in the building used for some event.

A highlight of the latter part of the season was Evelyn Kuo's first place finish at the Deerfield invitational in January. She won first place for Dramatic Interpretation, and for that achievement she was invited to participate in the State Tournament of Champions at Illinois State University on the weekend of February 26.

The team consisted mainly of sophomores and juniors, a change from years past. With a solid core of experienced students, Rosenbaum looks forward to next season with enthusiasm. She said, "With a Forensics class of more than 20 people, and a solid core of experienced team members, I think the prospects of an outstanding season next year are exceptional. The talent and interest are there; it's just a question of how willing people are to work."

Karen Lang, a member of the team for two years, felt that I.E. Speech was worth the effort needed to succeed. "This was the one activity that I could work on interpret, and create by myself and without costumes and theatrical 'crutches.' I was judged solely on my own ability."

Debaters fare well in state finals

While gaining in number and ability, the Buffalo Grove Debate team earned much recognition on both the varsity and novice levels during the past season. Senior varsity debaters Marion Wysocki and Glenn Golinski debated, for the second consecutive year, in the Class AA state finals, achieving a credible record against difficult competition. Furthermore, they attained semi-finalist status at the Class A state tournament.

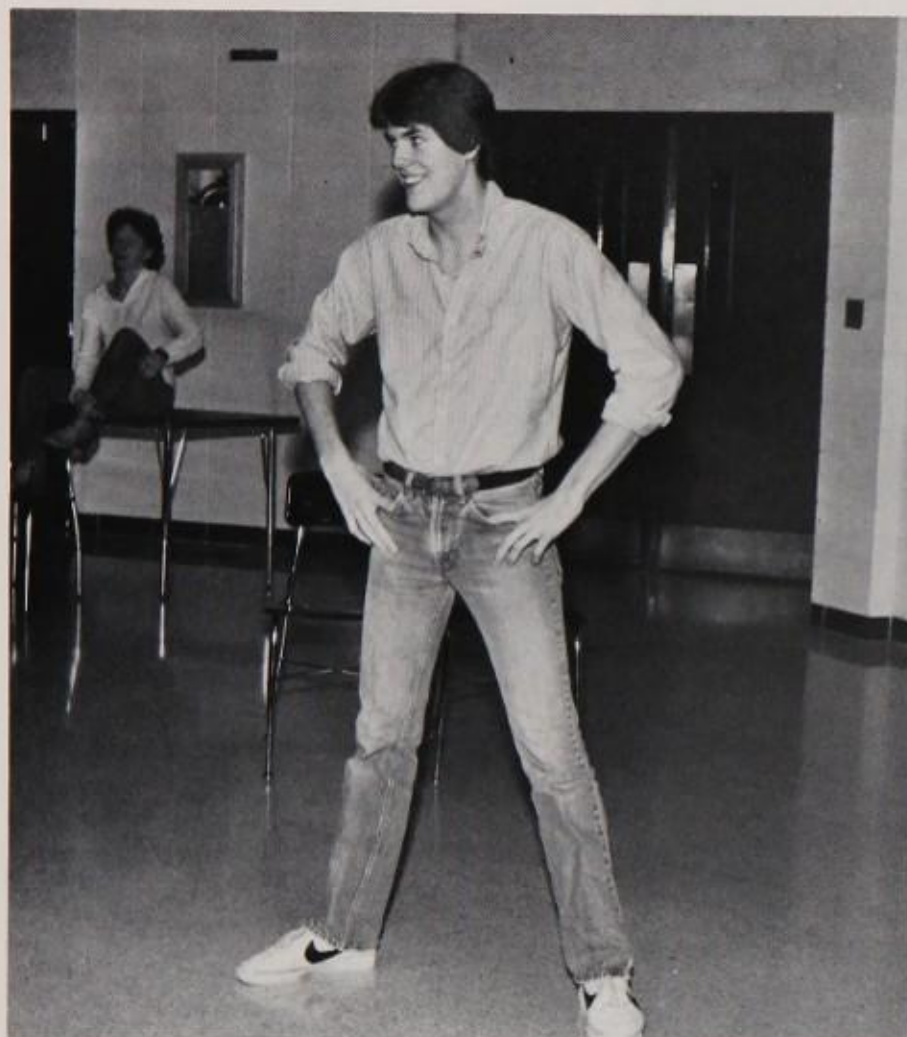

Aside from the numerous individual and team awards on the novice level, Senior Todd Hustel and freshman Stacy Berg earned semi-finalist status in the class A state tournament. Freshmen debaters Eric Bochner and George Kokkiness also debated well at this tournament, reaching quarterfinalist ranking.

Despite the loss of seniors Marian Wysocki, Glenn Golinski, Larry Necheles, and Todd Hustel, the debate team will retain a strong foundation. Coach Linda Cesario and novice Coach Diane Landow anticipate continued success for the coming season.

Stage Crew Important For Contest Play

"You have to be alive and willing to work." According to David Breitberg, these are vital aspects of Stage Crew. Members of Stage Crew weren't required to have any special skills, though pride and consistency were preferred characteristics.

Lee Fialek, the new director, said Stage Crew worked closely with the cast. According to Fialek the most important thing about Stage Crew is to be able "to learn to be part of a production company." He also commented, "The most significant thing about Stage Crew is that it is made up of only one or two juniors and no seniors."

David Breitberg was Master Carpenter and Running Crew head, he joined Stage Crew Because "It was a big thrill on opening night to see what you have done, and also because of the parties."

Music club rocks onto school scene

"We like to get together to listen to music, and exchange our opinions and ideas on recent and past music," commented president Steve Frevert of Contemporary Music Club.

The Contemporary Music Club, although a new organization, was seen throughout the school in their various activities. For example, who could forget the C.M.C. Homecoming float portraying the Woodstock festival?

When asked why so much attention should be given to music, Frevert replied, "Music is one of the highest forms of communication and art known to man, in that it is a way of expressing different emotions and attitudes."

Nine in IFC spend week in Wyoming

In the beginning of February, nine International Friendship Club members got to participate in a short term exchange to Wyoming.

After twenty-two hours on the train, the nine students arrived in Cheyenne. They went skiing, (a first for several), milked cows, ate Buffalo Burgers, visited the capitol building, went square dancing, and met Miss Wyoming. By the time they had to leave, most of them didn't want to. "It was the most memorable week of my life. I met so many people that I will never forget," said sophomore Eileen Mulkerrin. Almost all of the members shared her feelings.

At Christmas time, the club played Secret Santa by leaving other club members little gifts in a shoebox in the Foreign Language Resource Room. At the end of the week, they had a Christmas party where the secret santas were identified. The idea was to acquaint club members with the members they did not know.

In late February, the club had nine visitors from different countries who were staying in St. Louis, Missouri. On International Day, which was during the International Week, there were also ten people from surrounding schools to give presentations on their countries.

The club participated in a seminar held at New Trier East High School, where they won an award for their successful exchange to Wyoming. They also received ideas to make their club a more active one.

In May, they sponsored the International Fair. This was a big hit as usual with the German and French Clubs participating also.

The club had several fund raisers, including the sale of the chupa chup suckers, and also Zotz.

They also worked concessions a couple times at the home basketball games.

International Fair peak of year for French Club

'Oui' may sound like a strange word to most of us but it is common vocabulary for French Club.

The twenty-five members of French Club participated in many activities. In November, they went ice-skating and ate at the Magic Pan. In October, French Club went to Vie de France in Woodfield where they sampled authentic French food. They also sampled French food at Le Titi de Paris in February. In May, French Club was involved in the International Fair. They ended the year with a fondue party in May.

The highpoint of the year was the International Fair, according to sponsor Denise Rano. It involved a lot of people and everyone was enthusiastic. To raise money for their various activities French Club successfully sold calendars.

German Club was also involved in many activities. In November the club was involved with the Homecoming activities by building a float. In December German Club visited the Austrain Christmas Extravaganza. In April, they spent the weekend at a castle. The club then participated in International Fair in May. German Club ended the year with a picnic with German students from Elk Grove.

According to president Jim Schmit, German Club was more organized and there was more participation this year. The club raised money for their numerous activities by selling gummi bears, gummi rolls, and working concessions at two of the basketball games.

NHS inducts 52 members SHS honors 27 members

After being evaluated by the entire faculty on four qualities-scholarship, leadership, service, and character-fifty-two new members were elected to the National Honor Society.

A ceremony was held in the theater to initiate the new members. The special guest speaker was Richard Rosholt from the Social Science Department.

The newly appointed officers in the society also gave speeches. The new officers are: President, Evelyn Kuo; Vice-President, Maribeth Radar; Secretary, Julie Moe; and Treasurer, Catherine Mauney.

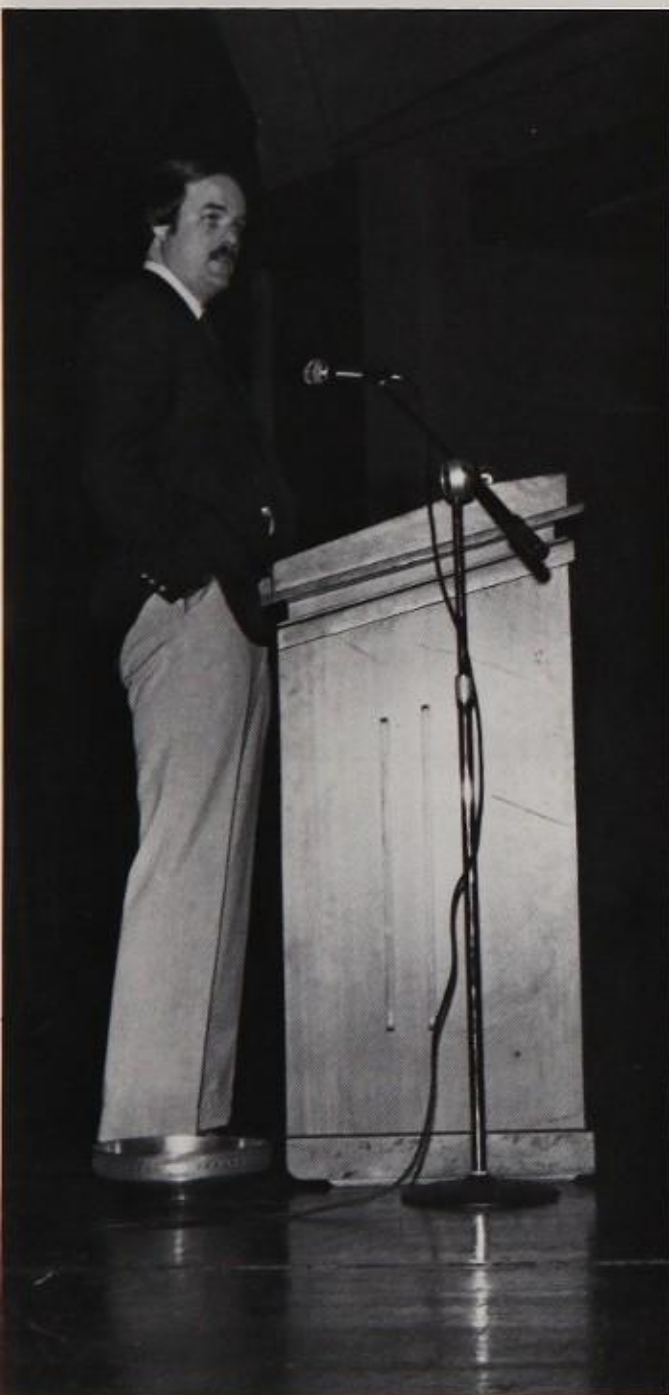

Seniors Marian Wysocki and Barb Bloethner were nominated to receive $1000 scholarships. They were nominated after the faculty had evaluated their accomplishments.

"Currently numbering 97 junior and senior members, the Buffalo Grove chapter is proud to be nationally ranked for the quality and of its students' involvement and dedication," said Dr. Linda Babl of the society.

"Twenty-seven members of the Spanish Honor Society initiated twenty-nine candidates in the organization. This honor is bestowed on only the upper 5% of students taking Spanish. Each year, the members must prove academic excellence and demonstrate outside interest in the Spanish language and culture to maintain the membership," said Elaine Steele of the Spanish Honor Society.

In the Spring, a candlelighting ceremony was held to honor the new members. These members were chosen on the basis of the interest they have shown for the Spanish culture and their grade point average for their Spanish classes.

Girard takes sixth; Congress sees dome

"The Insanity of Mary Girard," by Lanie Robertson, served as the vehicle that took the Bison Readers' Theatre, or Group Interpretation, to the state finals at Decatur's Milliken University in March. The group that went to Decatur consisted of five members, down from the original six.

Cast early in the year, the group had several casting changes. Senior Lisa Gregory, originally cast in the title role of Mary Girard, graduated in January because of Reagan's Social Security cuts. The role was then taken by Laura Martin. Dave McDonald dropped out early in March due to ill health and family conflicts. Instead of casting another person in McDonald's role, Director John Marquette simply switched some roles within the existing core of actors. Marquette said, "It created a better balance to have the five players as opposed to six, because it allowed the group to make better stage pictures and images with the smaller group."

At the state tournament, the group placed sixth out of the twelve competing teams. On being in a group more successful than any other in the school's history, Laura Martin said, "I'm glad we made it downstate. I'm sorry though that Lisa (Gregory) had to drop out, and I'm sorry that we didn't place higher than we did. It was a great experience, though."

Student Congress, another of the Speech Activities, had the longest season of any of those activities, with its first tournament being held in October, and the state tournament being held the first weekend in May at the State Capitol in Springfield. The Congress team was smaller than those of past years, but Coach Carol Schneider explained that all on the team were involved in other speech activities. She said, "The season for us was characterized by some juggling and balancing as we all attempted to fulfill our commitments to Congress and other speech activities as well . . . . Congress fosters critical thinking about a variety of significant current events and provided students from BG with political and personal friendships with students and coaches from other schools with differing backgrounds and beliefs."

Concert Choir sees Ohio, sings for pot luck dinner

Combining work and pleasure, the Concert Choir performed at Kings Island Amusement Park in Cincinnati, Ohio. Planning for this trip began last year with car washer held over the summer, and continued throughout the year with ornament sales, the sale of popcorn in glass cannisters, and a candy sale in the spring.

The Choir began the school year with a pot luck dinner in the fall, where they sang a spiritual, "Ride the Chariot". In November, over thirty members participated at the Illinois Music Educators' District VII choral festival. Of those who auditioned for the chorus, all were chosen. They also sang at the annual winter choral/orchestral festival on December 13, joining with the Orchestra in Handel's "Messiah." Later that week, they performed at the Winter Assembly.

In March, the Choir attended the District 214 Choral Festival, held at Rolling Meadows High School. This was an unusual experience for the Concert Choir because they had the opportunity to perform with the Concert Choirs from all District 214's other schools.

For the final concert of the year, the group performed popular jazz selections, including "Goodnight, Sweetheart," popularized by the '50s singing group "Sha Na Na."

After their trip to Cincinnati, the Choir ended their year by performing the Alma Mater and the Senior class song at Graduation on June 10. Of the Concert Choir experience, senior Bill Birmingham said, "It gave me a chance to pursue my musical interest while gaining new friends."

Freshman and Varsity choirs spread some holiday cheer by Christmas caroling at St. Joseph's Home in Palatine and Northwest Community Hospital in December. "It cheered up the people in the hospital; it was a lot of fun," said choir member Julie Walker.

Freshman Choir consisted of 45 members, the majority girls. Varsity Choir had 5 girls. Besides singing, the choirs also learned some music fundamentals, including the names of notes and rhythms and sightreading. The Freshman Choir was one of the most talented ever, according to choral director Linda Anderson.

The Freshman and Varsity choirs participated in three concerts in December, March, and May. In the December and March concerts, traditional as well as popular songs were sung. The May concert consisted of all jazz pieces. The May concert is the highpoint of the year because it is the last concert and the all jazz music is interesting, according to Anderson.

The choirs also participated in the Solo and Ensemble contest held at Highland Park High School. The Freshman Ensemble won a first place singing "Rock of Ages." Freshman soloist Stephanie Ingram also received a first place at the contest.

Expressions invited to Wc

Explaining their 'Tour of Two Cities', Linda Anderson, Expressions instructor said it consisted of Nashville and Knoxville, Tennessee. Featured highlights of their expanded show were revised to two 45 minutes acts for two World's Fair dates.

"This has been an exciting year for the Expressions, with their big show, Christmas Show, and the World's Fair. I am extremely proud of them for their accomplishments on and off stage," said Anderson.

Twenty-two members made the sing and dance ensemble, including the accompanist Mary Pat Mahoney.

During the BG Days Town Fair, the Expressions performed five songs: "Sing, Sing, Sing", "Let the Sunshine In", "Come In From the Rain", "Fame Medley", and "Main Event".

Chevy Chase Country Club housed the Christmas performance. As in all shows, it was geared to appeal to the young and old alike. Throughout the entire year, they danced and sang in varying styles and movements, (such as the 'Charleston', and tap pieces).

On April 23 and 24, the Expressions had a public performance, at 7:30 p.m. on both evenings.

Fog machines and colored spectrum lights trimmed the opening number of "Birdland", which lead to "Celebration", the well-known pep assembly number, featuring Rich David as lead voacl. Act one consisted mainly of one-costume contemporary-ragtime songs such as "Occapella" and "My Sweet Lady", which Ed Nowak accompanied on guitar.

Multiple costume changes and different styles of music carried the theme of 'Passages Through Time', in act two. Music of the 1910's featured "Bill Bailey," Roxane Sarkesian's dramatization from the vaudeville era, and "Elegance," a clown routine, act by Nikki Cozzi and Scott Clark.

"I Wanna Be Loved By You," the first feature of the 1920's, was a comedy dance routine by Lisa Czepiel, and a solo vocal by Tony Nieberle singing the slow-moving ballad "Honeysuckle Rose".

The 1930's began with Kate Dolan "Makin' Whoopie," then the quick-moving dance routine "Opus One," with Laura Jones and Bill Birmingham, and Kirk Fallbacher's satire of a rich playboy in "All I Care About."

Laura Loman's "Rat-tat-tat-tat", an service song, marked the start of the 1940s. "Army Medley" consisted of the highly emotional "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and the Expressions traditional closing song, complete with deaf hand signs and a homemade flag rising for the grand finale. Ed Nowak said, "The closing number sums up our feelings for everybody- it wishes our entire audience good-luck".

Senior Rich David explained that the concept used to decide feature-soll performances was not merely a judgement of your vioce. Rather, an overall "fit" to the style of the song suggested the appropriate choice for parts.

May concert highlight of music year

An accumulation of a whole year's work was highlighted in the May Concert. Two seniors performed solos, Carol Lee, and Barb Bloethner. The Pop and Pretzel concert was also a big success. Suzy Rice sang the original "I Still Remember" with Ed Nowak on bass and Carol Lee on drums.

Back and arm problems hospitalized Conductor Bruce Fowler during the Orchestra season. He was in too much pain to conduct.

"It was tough while Mr. Fowler was out, but Mrs. Curtis helped a great deal," commented senior Jules Goldspiel.

"Under the circumstances of this year I feel that we got a great deal accomplished," said Suzy Rice.

Band plays in Columbus Day parade

"Our main purpose is to entertain people at sport and school assemblies," commented trumpet player Dean Mueller. The Marching Band did just that, but not at only school functions. They performed at several area festivals, such as Buffalo Grove Days, and the Columbus Day parade in Chicago.

Director Keith Ramsden selects the music the band plays, writes shows, and decides where the band will play. He decided to keep the band out of competition so that they could excel in the entertainment area. The music they play is usually pop or show that was arranged for a marching band.

Although they needed a short period of adjustment to a new band director, Ramsden felt the band noticeably improved with each game to become high quality musicians.

Zoloto, Doyle Make District All Star Band

Two Jazz Band members, Steve Zoloto on alto saxophone and Steve Doyle on electric lead guitar, made the district all star band sponsored by the Illinois Music Educators' Association. There are only 26 students in this band which covers the Chicago Suburban Area.

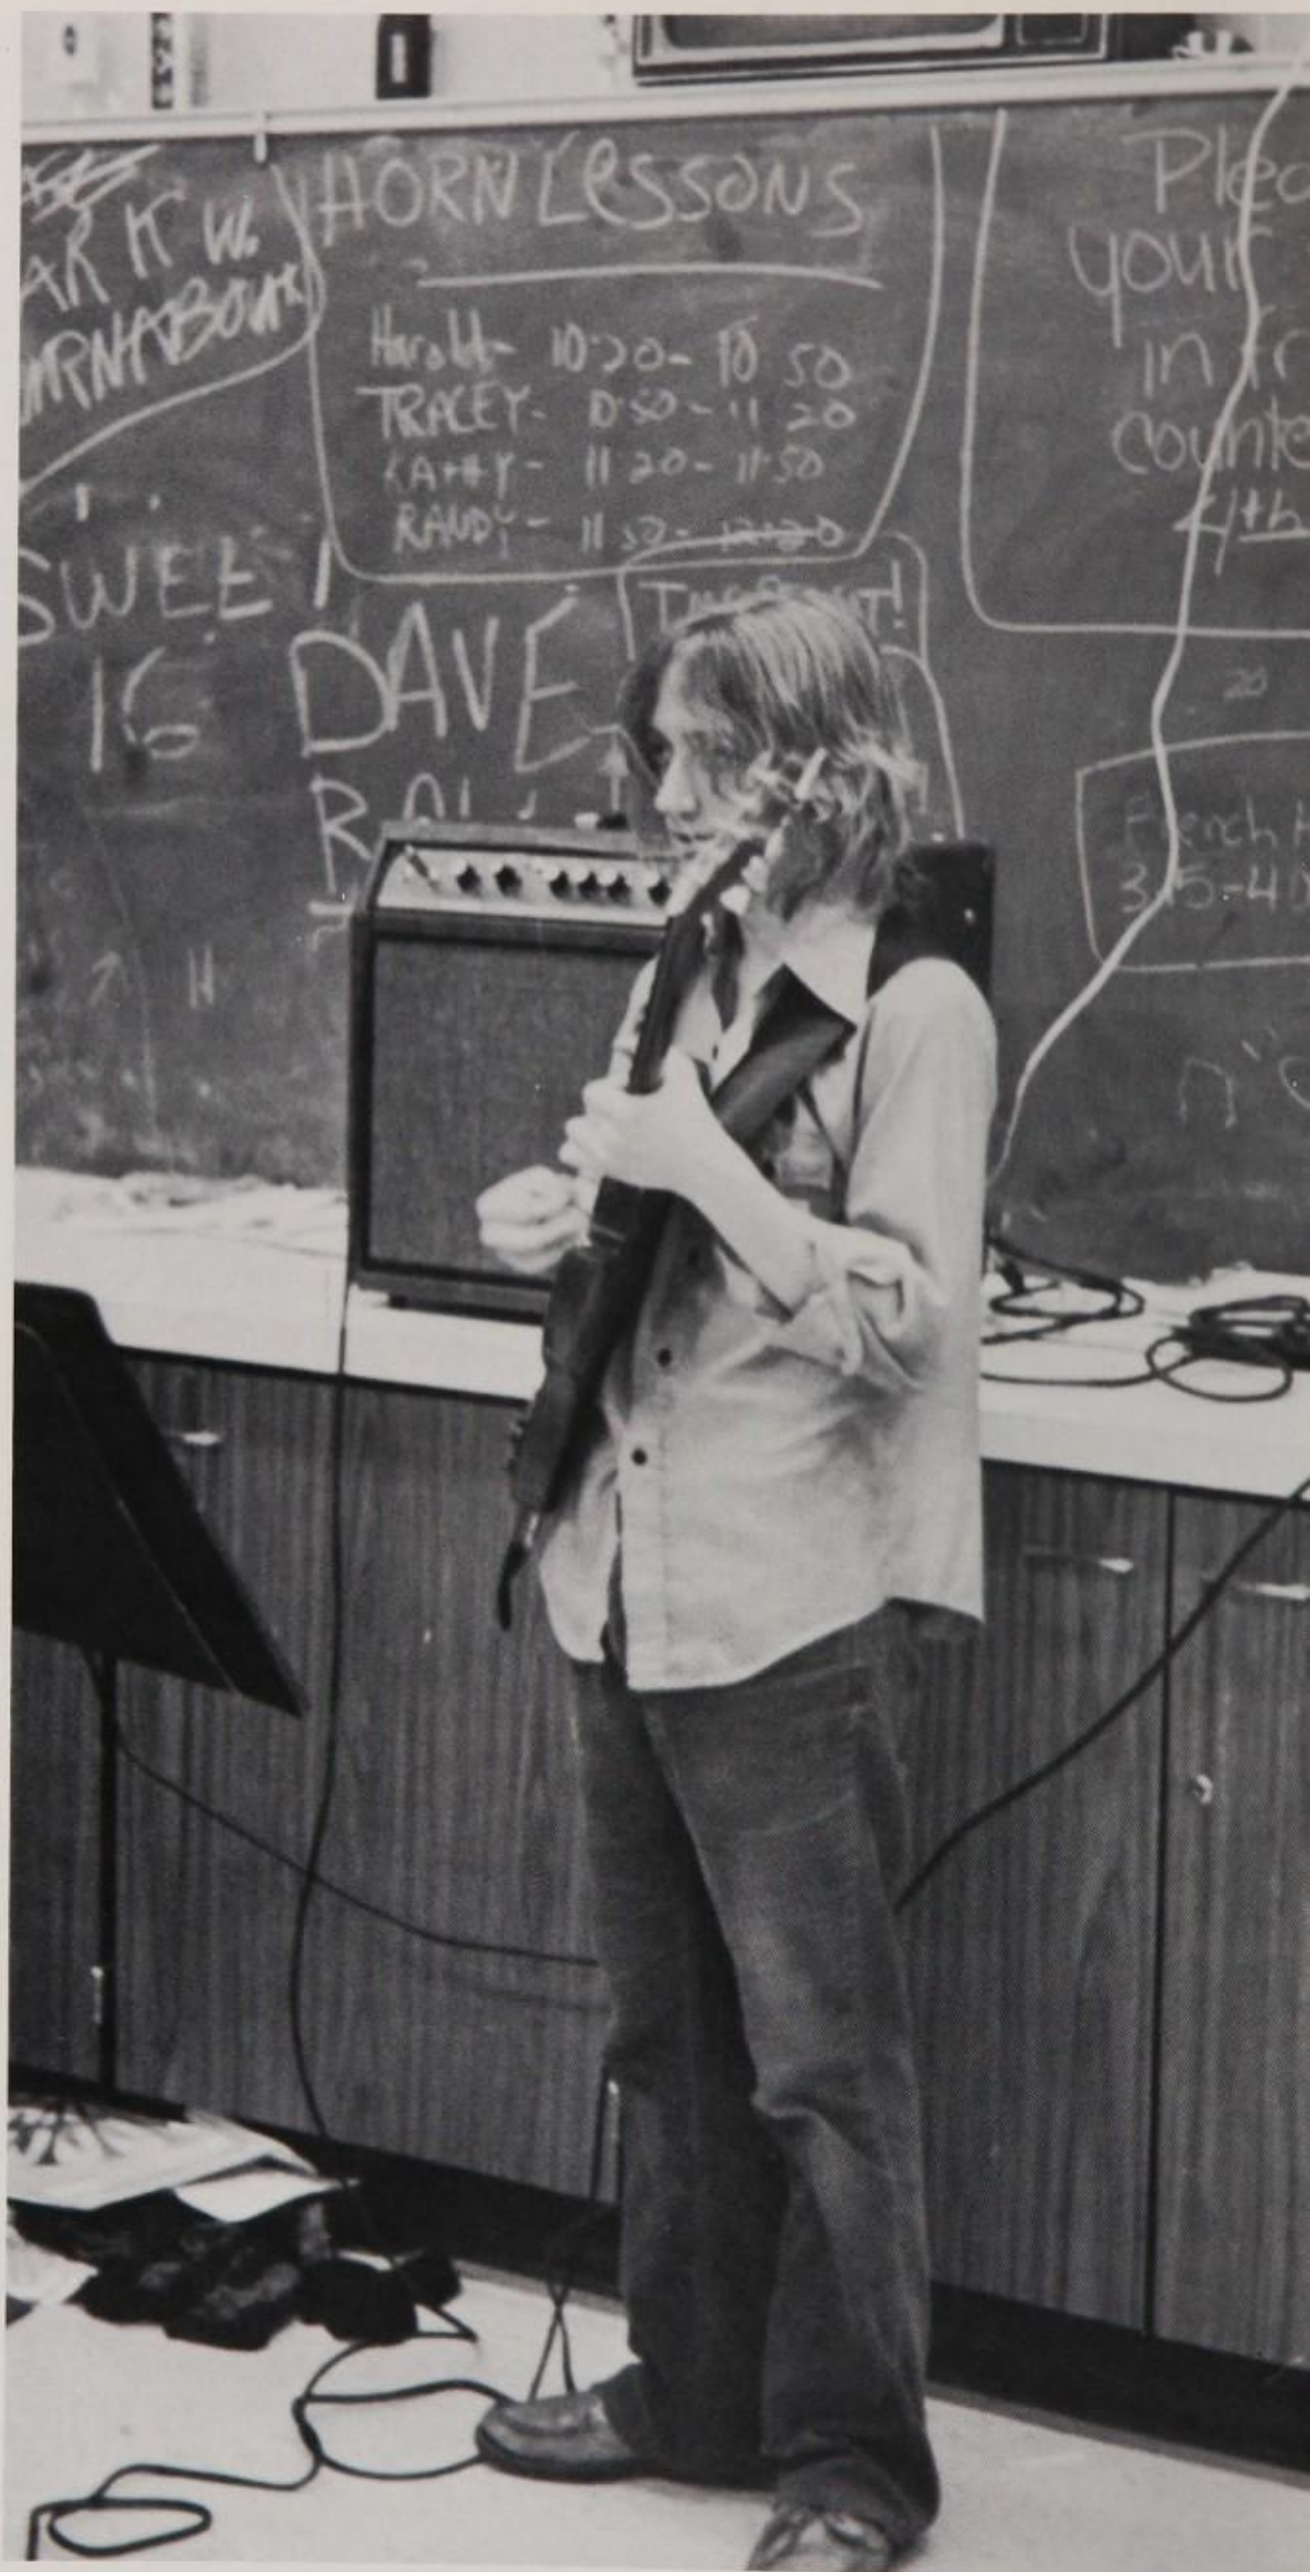

In his first year, director Keith Ramsden "wanted to bring the Jazz Bands closer to B.G. student life." He wanted the bands to enjoy playing the music instead of worrying about competing.

Senior Jules Goldspiel, who plays the trumpet and who is in Jazz Band One, said he "wanted to play something which can be upbeat sometimes, and laid back others."

Senior Joe Maynen, who plays the valve trombone, said, "I like it because I have always liked jazz and swing. Jazz Band gives me a chance to play this kind of music".

There were two Jazz Bands. The first was for the more experienced players. This was called Jazz Band One. In Jazz Band Two, anyone could participate. This was considered a training group for freshmen, or for students who want to learn to play more than one instrument. The first Jazz Band performs the major concerts, such as the Orchesis show and the Pop and Pretzel's concert.

Charger offers features, solid reporting

Major changes from past years have made the editions of Charger more complete. The "responsible" editorial board has given the Charger minimal problems.

According to newspaper advisor Patricia Wright, "This has been the most cohesive year. Members enjoy each other, respect each other's position. Making deadlines is a major responsibility, and (we have done this) with a lack of disputes." Likewise, Editor-in-Chief Karen Titus mentioned the transition of new semester students as the smoothest in years.

The paper offered more features than any year before. When it was common to have only one or two two-page features the entire year, the staff managed to include a two-page feature nearly every edition this year. Features included the Valentine's Day spread "Memory Lane," a look into this school's past, complete with pictures of the school under construction, and the very first Expressions contrasted with today's. Also new were "You Asked For It," a column answering questions posed by the students pertaining to the school; "Cuba Road," the Halloween spread, which was a compilation of legends and myths about the unique site, and "College Monopoly."

Feature Editor senior Cindy Pearlman added, "We used more pictures, more interesting layouts, and 'special effects' (such as background tinting and script headlines). We've used a lot of student input- (surveys accounted for half of the spreads), and twice as many quotes as last year."

Columns added a new dimension to the paper. "Over the Edge," editorials by Managing Editor Holly Nelson, "Staying in Tune," a music feature by junior Craig Damon, and "Hart Beat," sports talk by senior Brian Hart, took a look at the human side of the school.

Mrs. Wright was particularly impressed with the work on the board closings (to decide which Dist. 214 school would close). She said, "The coverage was quite good. (There was) accurate use of facts, and (the reporters) were unbiased as to what school would be affected." The students also went to the meetings, thus going the 'extra mile'. She mentioned that using as many student names as possible was one of their important goals.

Stampede's emphasis this year went to the arts, with less focus on sports, a change from past years. Editor-in-chief Dave McDonald stated, "By putting in pages of art-work and poetry (again this year), we demonstrated our interests in the arts." Also, English was stressed due to McDonald's influence.

"I think I orientated this book more toward seniors. I made a bigger deal of the seniors with the senior pages and directory," said McDonald. He also said he tried to appeal to the majority, equalizing the coverage of each activity, instead of "spotlighting."

Yearbook advisor Dale Dassonville was "hoping we wouldn't be pressured by deadlines." But, as it turns out, deadlines always seemed to be an obstacle that posed financial problems.

"Most of the staff is new to Publications. The first year students had the same responsibility as the experienced ones," commented Dassonville, "but the book is coming off well."

Special features to the Stampede were an entertainment article by Greg Lamanna, and creative artwork for the cover and division pages by Steve Frevert.

Rob Nowak, photo editor, felt good photography made the yearbook interesting. "This year, the staff members gave me the photo assignments, instead of me making them up." This is a more efficient system. "Last year most of the planning was done beforehand, but notice how this year ideas were from the staff. We wanted to hear more from the class. It made the class more interesting because the students (could function) within the class, with an open mind. The people wanted to improve the book."

Council sells t-shirts, raises money for charity

Concert t-shirt sales was a new fund-raising activity sponsored by Student Council. According to Carol Belmonte, class president, they were looking for "a more exciting fund-raiser and this proved to be it."

Along with t-shirts, Student Council helped in many other fund-raising activities. There was the canned food drive for St. Edna's Parish. Student Council also had Dime Day. This money went to Buffalo Grove's adopted child, Swapan. Peanut Day and flower sales for Valentines Day went over very well also.

"For Christmas some Student Council members dressed up as elves and passed around candy canes during lunch," said Carol. On Friday of that week one member from each class dressed up as a Santa Claus and went around collecting money for charities. The Santa who collected the most money got to name the charity.

The Council hosted a Northeast District of Student Councils Workshop on September 30. This consisted of twenty-two schools, 266 students, and twenty advisors. They were taught leadership, group dynamics, and motivation and enthusiasm at the meeting.

Student Council also sponsored summer workshops for members and assemblies along with many other things they did for the school.

Cheerleaders upgrade style over summer

Summer camp made a big difference in the four cheerleading squads. "Their style was upgraded as was the cheering," said assistant sponsor Beth Arnold.

The goal was a greater versatility in stunts and tumbling. "Overall, the cheers were speedier and pep-pier," said Arnold.

Since the junior varsity performed at only three games, it was decided to combine it with the sophomore squad for next year.

The girls sponsored Homecoming, planning everything that went on, including the sale of mums. The cheerleaders also decorated the halls, the exterior of the building and the lockers of the football and basketball players. They also baked "goodies" for the athletes.

BG-ettes Head Downstate; Pons Take 2nd

For the first time ever, the Bisonettes won two second place trophies at competition against thirty-eight other high schools from all over the state. The trophies were received for kickline and a pom pon routine. The routine was choreographed by the entire squad, however, the leading choreographers were juniors Sue Morris and Sue Connors.

Over the summer, Bisonettes attended camp, as usual, but the place they went to wasn't their usual place. The camp was held at Northern Illinois University, and it was a place for them to show off their routines, and perform for other schools.

Sponsor Ann Gjertsen felt that the squad was original in their routines, which made them more eligible for competition. She said they also seemed to have more of a desire to win, rather than trying only to have fun.

Being able to work with a smaller group was something else the Bisonettes were able to experience. The squad was smaller by ten girls, and Gjertsen said this seemed to make it much easier for them to work together.

In May, the Bisonettes held a clinic for area grade school children. This was done in conjunction with the drill team.

By winning two first place trophies at Downer's Grove and Palatine, BG-ettes qualified for state competition. They won their trophies in an eight-minute show, choreographed by the co-captains and captain.

Peggy Dreveny was also a big part of their eight-minute show.

They were also able to send a member downstate for an all-state competition. Hill was chosen to go.

According to Hill, they wanted new uniforms for competitions, especially white ones because they are "sharper". To get them, BG-ettes sold mugs and "M & M's".

A group called BG-ette Boosters made up of the drill team members' parents, helped out with organizing many of the fund raisers.

Dance is entertainment, education for girls: Maxson

"Our purpose is the education and entertainment of the public and ourselves," commented Orchesis coach Martha Maxson. "We educate ourselves by learning new dance routines, and educate the public on the beauty of dance."

The Orchesis members choreograph all of their routines, and perform them on many occasions, including basketball games, Arts Unlimited, and the Winter Assembly. Their biggest production all year, however, was their annual spring show, entitled "The Magic of Motion", where they perform all of their favorite routines. Their two best routines, "Biddy-Biddy-Boop ... Three Little Words," choreographed by Shelly Riederer, and "Arabian Daybreak- Arabian Nightfall," choreographed by Kim Gard, were chosen to represent Buffalo Grove at the state auditions.

Slowed economy affects work program

Due to the poor economy that has plagued our nation, many students didn't have work for Cooperative Work Training. Mike Kane, the advisor, said, "(The) first part of the year was successful because we had all the students placed. But due to the slowed economy, it became difficult to find work stations. Some of the students were forced to take jobs they were not particularly interested in just to meet qualifications of the program. This hurts the effectiveness of the program because (they) aren't learning career-orientated interests."

At one time in Kane's class alone, four out of his 26 students were out of work. This was the highest unemployment statistic in CWT's history.

CWT was instructed by two advisors, Norm Rathje, and Mike Kane, due to the class popularity and size.

Senior Leanne Garnett enjoyed the responsible feeling she got from the CWT experience. "It opened doors financially," she said. "And meanwhile I earned two credits (toward) graduation," she said.

A variety of topics are touched upon, to awaken the students to attitudes that might influence job performance. According to Rathje, if he can change an attitude, he's changed a life. "Our main concern is dealing with attitudes. We deal with all the problems of a job. Most of the time (the attitude) is the main reason for a person's complications. We teach the students to solve the problem themselves," he said.

Office Education Association had two presidents, due to the fact that the original, Pam Burmeister, graduated early. Vice-President Chris Peterson took office thereafter.

Burmeister, along with Sue Caruth, Kathy Krischten, and Susie Girardi, went to Decatur for the State OE Fall Conference. Her other responsibilities included running the candy sales, meetings, and attending all OE functions.

OE Week was important to the members because it was the time to spread the word about the benefits of OE. Also, regional competition was held. Chris Petersen won second in advanced shorthand, Chris Paulson placed second in bulletin application skills, and Linda Eliassen won first in advanced typing contests.

These students qualified for the state competition in Springfield, but no awards were brought home.

Members of OE participated in a service project for handicapped children. They gave a Christmas party for disabled pre-schoolers at the Mark Hopkins School in Elk Grove.

A major influence this year was the new unit of Introduction to Word Processing. The students were given an exposure to computers.

OE instructor Sharon Leslie said, "In this district we use Apple Computers. I feel this is an extremely important emphasis. A company feels that the students can now adapt with the computer background. We have three Apples in class." It is stressed that one must be willing to learn computers with today's technology.

"What we are waiting for, in OE is software that is more applicable for office use. The Apple is not used widely in industry, but the skills and methods learned are important for application to other computers," said Leslie.

"The ideal goal is to pursue a job that has career potential. We want the students to be thinking about keeping industrial jobs after graduation," said Mr. Maki, advisor for Industrial Cooperative Education. He emphasized the interests in ICE was more important than in other work programs (for job placement) because industrial jobs are so wide and varied.

Wise decisions on behalf of the students enables them to excel. Hope Romano, Sue Chandler, and Jeff Struck received praise from their employers for efficiency.

Classroom strategy was quite different from other classes, in the sense that each student studies material that relates to his particular job. It's an independent study atmosphere; thus its difficult to unify the whole class under a common lesson plan.

One senior, Dave Lampert, explained, "You receive points by working out of a book in your field (of interest), and depending on difficulty and amount (of work), you receive your grade."

Maki added that there are functions not part of ICE, but are considered substantial areas of study. Maki helped to place pupils in a cosmetology academy. When the course was through, they were able to become licensed cosmetologists in Illinois.

Each of the work programs featured their own employer-appreciation banquets as the year's finale. The banquets were financed through fund-raisers.

Teacher aide Adlesick enjoys kids

"I knew Community Resources could get this job for me," senior Sheryl Adlesick said. Adlesick volunteered her assistance at the Joyce Kilmer School, where she tends to the needs of a third grade class. "I wanted this job, and I knew how to get it. I help with math, reading and writing." Adlesick is an "in-class" teacher's aide.

Senior Terri Smith also works as a teacher's aide at Joyce Kilmer, running dittos, grading papers and executing bulletin boards.

Five other girls aide at Kilmer: Cindy Person, Annete Kotowski, Lori Lambert, Sue Smith, and Tanya Wasinger.

Principal Dr. Richard Boos commented, "The two gals have done a real fine job in helping teachers and secretaries. It gives (the girls) an air of confidence, personality-wise. The youngsters that work with Cheryl really enjoy her company."

Community Resource advisor Glenn Matter explained the structure, "This is a volunteer program where you donate your time in the community. Students must put in 70 clock hours a semester for one-half credit."

David Cloos, Judy Horwitz and Vince TeRonde are active at the Buffalo Grove Police Department. Cloos is a radio operator, and Horwitz and TeRonde act as secretary-aides.

Other jobs are held at a travel agency by Barbara Juengling and Debbie Nelson, and one girl works at WTCO radio station.

Community Resources also participated in the Bike-A-Thon, National Smokeout Day, and the Smoking Stinks Campaign.

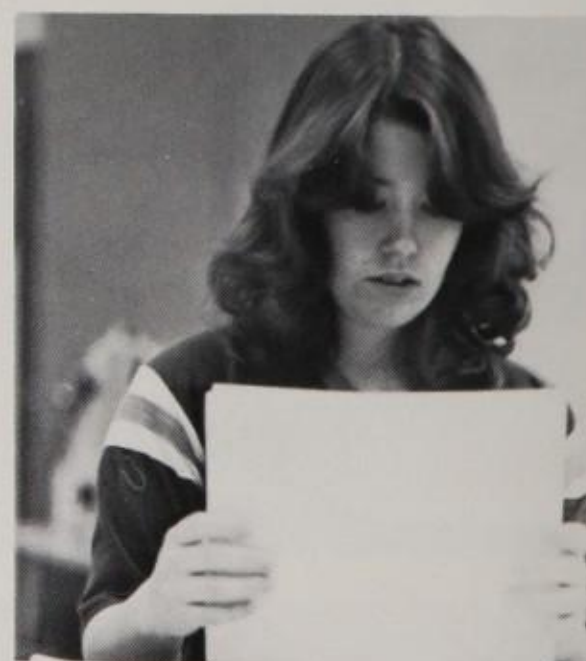

"Stand Up and Be Counted" was the theme emphasized at the Home Economics Related Occupation's Sixth Annual Fall Rally. This involved 700-800 students in an overnight rally at the Hamilton Inn in Itasca.

The theme was carried out through various workshops on workshops dealing with alcohol use, family violence and juvenile law. Dr. Jack Early, guest speaker, discussed attitudes and the improvisational comedy skits of "Wavelength" were featured.

Everything from "toothpicks to the most modern cooking equipment" was on display at the National Restaurant Association's Show. The private show was open to HERO students only, and covered over two acres of floor space. Ellen Corti, HERO instructor, did not participate in the annual HERO competition skills held downstate. "We've had more participation in the past. Last year I took eight students with outstanding results. This year's group just didn't gell well together." Of all the district schools with a HERO program, Buffalo Grove's HERO was the only not to go downstate.

Corti named treasurer Laynie Frank as outstanding worker. "We do a lot of fund-raising for the employer banquet, which is considered a big task, and she did quite a job," Corti said.

A scarlet shadow glides along the frosted windowpane
 Point seven comes into view
 Darkness beckons me
 And delineates my features
 As no Klieg light ever could
 Muted whispers dance about the yawning chasm
 In time to a synthesized Viennese waltz
 The ballerina in the music box dies inside
 For want of the freedom to lose her balance
 The wide-eyed children admire the diamond teardrop on her alabaster cheek
 Not pausing to consider why it's there
 The man on the stair died long ago
 A fluff of down wafts so gently to the earth
 Flirting with currents of air as it descends
 The sharp stab of her ebon stiletto heel
 As she stamps the final halting breaths of a cigarette into the parquet
 Pale in comparison to the stab of her baleful liquid eyes
 A verdant flash of youth flickers
 Then disappears.

SPRING WILL COME AGAIN

Though you are gone, my love shall never go, nor wilt like flowers under winter's snow.
I think of you as if you were my friend.
The memories will help my heart to mend,
and soon the seeds of love will bloom and grow.
Marian Wysocki

Summer's sunset
When they sky burns and glows
All eyes turn westward to witness Magic.

STAGES

The scene is set, the stage is lit
 I think that I'm an artist fit.
 The stage is my true canvas and
 My brush, the use of face and hand.
 My paint will be the script I take My stroke, the script of what I make.
 The empty chairs frown back at me
 They shall not know, they haven't seen.
 For there was not a ticket sold
 And still my story goes untold.

Karen Lang

What is geneology? Geneology is an ancient granite courthouse sprung up in the middle of a cornfield. It's a dusty metal box full of musty, brittle, yellowing documents. It's stiff-lipped old matrons in sepia-tone dresses and mustachioed men in black and white suits. It's a name scratched in a Bible in a childlike scrawl. It's a date etched in marble for all time on a weathered, time-worn tombstone in the midst of uncut grass and sprawling weeds. It's a family reunion, with its good food, nice people and jubilant faces. It's a project that lasts a lifetime.

THE INCIDENT

It started. A crowd formed around, but naturally nobody interfered. These events were becoming quite commonplace. At first there were the usual shouts and screams from the center, but it bothered no one. The audience reacted in their typical way; they cracked jokes, made comments, and cheered the incident. It was going rather well, although for some it might have been a trifle too long since some preferred it fast.

It was amazing how the public reaction had changed over the years. It even used to be against the law, but as people became bored with sports like football and hockey, they grew to enjoy it. One would never know when it would occur; one would just have to keep his eyes and ears open.

Always, at the present incident a strange phenomenon occurred. A woman from the crowd denounced the act as primitive, brutal and barbaric. She rushed into the circle and tried to stop it, but she was pulled back by a startled audience. They wondered if she hadn't ever seen a murder before.

Ed Schmit

Rock music is a phenomenon that crosses all barriers and encompasses a myriad of styles. It can be as refined as the Mamas and Papas or as outlandish as the Ramones. It can be as meaningful as Bob Dylan or as inane as Little Richard. Rock is the soulful singing of Van Morrison, the sensual growling of Mick Jagger, the pure sweetness of Smokey Robinson. It is the delicate harmony of Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young, and the Southern soul of the Band. Rock is guitars: the howling sounds of Jimi Hendrix, the virtuosity of Duane Allman, the ringing 12-string of Roger McGuinn, the power of Pete Townshend. Rock is drums: the competence of Charlie Watts, the maniacal fury of Keith Moon. Rock is the bouncy sound of the Hollies, the dark, brooding sound of the Doors, the celebration of Sly and the Family Stone. Rock is "A-wop-bop-a-lu-bop-a-lop-bam-boom" and "Yakety yak," and it is "How does it feel?" and "Wiping the dirt from his hands as he walks from the grave." Rock music is the pulse of youth and the heartbeat of a generation.

OF TARNISHED ARMOR AND LOST CAUSES

I think of "old times,"
Of glorious crusades through exotic lands,
Just like Richard the Lion-Hearted.
No flaws.
No secrets.
I just read that Richard was a rotten king
Who married the wife he never saw to hide the fact
He was gay.

It's high tide now.
Old sand castles have been washed away
And what of the King?
I used to be King of the Mountain ...
Crown is broken,
Mountain is gone.

"I can't search for the Holy Grail right now,
I've got to find clean underwear."

I had a place in the scheme of things
Written down in black and white.
Now that page has yellowed,
And black and white fade to grey.

Now the limelight hurts my eyes ...
And shows my scars.
Ah, sweet obscurity.
Conformity gives comfort
Like Novacaine on a rotting tooth.

The barker became a freak show,
Became another face in the audience-
Another face in the shadows ...
I care for shadow.

Jim Ferguson

THE DREADED THING

The condemned masses take

Life is a cold winter day
 Icy thoughts
 Pound the branches of my mind.
 Emotions freeze like an active pond turned Silent.
 These days, sad, full of frozen consciousness,
 Come and go, like the falling of the mercury.
 Yet on the horizon
 A golden sun peaks through
 Pale blue clouds.

ALONE

As I rest here,
alone,
by the phone,
I hope
I wish
I pray that you will call,

to say that you are sorry, to say that you didn't mean it,
to say that you want to come home to me.

I dream, as a sleeper dreams, of fields full of daisies and daffodils, of wine and songs,
of blissful, peaceful nights I thought would never end,

I dream that you will always be there,
that you will return to me on the wind
to love and care for me once more.

I remember the times when my spirit soared,
like an eagle,
as I rested in your arms;
when you held me close and comforted me as I cried.

I remember when you were my fortress from the cold, dark, wintry nights, and my haven
from the hatreds and prejudices of the world.

YOU WERE MY FRIEND!

I cry now, as I glance out the window at the couple in the street below.

I understand that you needed to leave, that you felt trapped, that you will never return;
yet, still I hope, beyond all odds, that you will share my life again.

I feel empty, alone, and forgotten without you to sustain me.

Only my continuous tears can release, ever so slowly,
the memories of you,
still dwelling,
in my broken heart.

LOVE BY PROXY

The Stranger knows the truth.
The one that laughs and smiles.
He thinks he knows the truth
That, by some cruel twist of fate,
Is the truth.

But you, my divinity,
Cannot,
Must not ever know.
For then you would
Tear from my desperate grasp
What meager,
Precious shreds of emotion
You might have carelessly left with me
Like an old umbrella.
Shreds I receive
In the guise of a friend,
A best friend at that.

I'm living in the Shadow of your love,
Made a mushroom by my idolatry.
I've done everything for you
Short of that which would Betray my feelings for
You
Will never be mine.

But mightn't you,
Thinking me a trusted brother,
Present an emotion meant for another?
Mightn't you give me,
If I keep my silence,
Some small spark of incidental warmth?

For this I shall live
Until I replace you
With another, more affable,
If less ...
You.

I'll deceive and be
Your pantomime lover.
I'll fantasize and gain
Your love by proxy.

Jim Ferguson

Now the year is over; the final test has been taken, the last Expo term paper has been typed. We've gone from football to the winter musical to prom, and we have all survived. We have all learned, grown and developed with one another this past year, and now we can take to the time to look forward to what the future brings, while at the same time looking at this book as a reminder and remembrance of the past year.

Editor's statement

It is a traditional duty of the Editor-in-Chief to write some type of closing remarks for the last page of the yearbook. In most cases, these remarks are attempts at pleasantness on the part of their authors, designed to be uplifting and push the "it's-not-the-end-of-the-world" idea. Do not try to fit this into the molds of past statements, for it does not pretend to be a typical Editor's Statement. This book is 220 pages, eight pages shorter than last year's book. The explanation for this cutback is simple: a lack of student interest in this publication beyond the purchase of a copy. Everybody wants a yearbook, but it seems almost no one is willing to help out. Out of 2,200 students, only 12 were "full time" members of the staff. I echo the sentiments of one of my predecessors in this "esteemed" post, Nancy Wetzel (Editor, STAMPEDE 1979), in questioning whether this, a student organization, should continue. It seems highly unfair that only 12 students should be given the task of producing a 220 page book for 2,200 people to enjoy, and I would hope that more students will help with any future additions of this publication which may appear before more pages must be cut from the book.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the following for their support during the production of this edition of the STAMPEDE: Dale Dassonville, our advisor, whose help, encouragement, and off-the-wall humor kept us going through some of our more trying moments; Dennis Eder, our representative from Josten's American Yearbook Company, for responding to our needs and phone calls; Mrs. Linda Eder, his wife, for giving him our messages; Schmitt Studios, for providing us with professional photography and some interesting moments; Brian Hart and Dave Kahn for photographic help, Marian Wysocki and Staci Berg for help with copy, and Juli Bianchi, whose dextrous digits performed above and beyond the call of duty at the typewriter.
